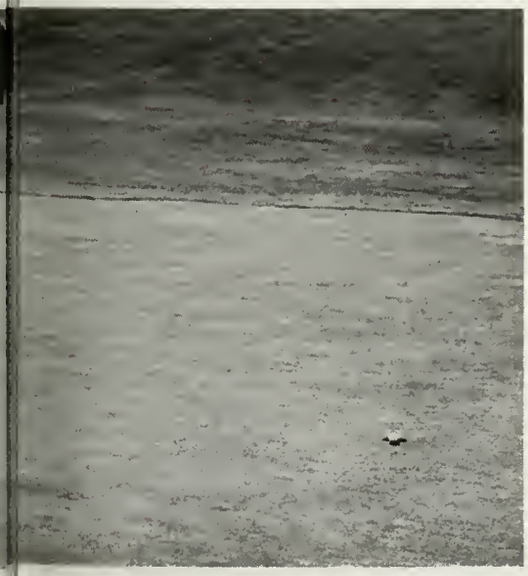
College is a quiet talk with a friend,

And a dance in the Grill,

And a piano-smashing contest,

And an evening at the laundromat – –



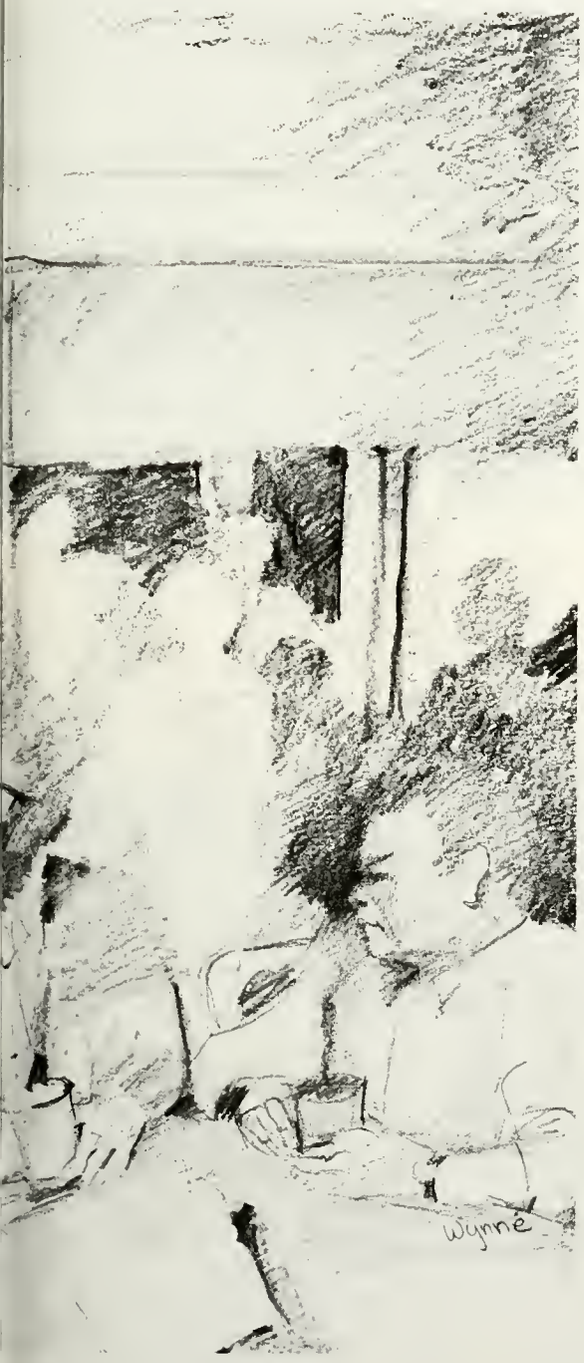
It is hours of contemplation—questioning—searching—

And moments of release — — of expression.

It is experiencing – absorbing – creating –

Spiritually – physically – emotionally –

It is growth.



STUDENT LIFE

Hedding Bell and McPherson Hall together make a picturesque afternoon scene.

Wesleyan's "skyscraper" Ferguson Hall, is seven stories high.

Memorial Gymnasium has seen many a convocation and many a P.E. class.

A winter snowfall provides a beautiful setting on Illinois Wesleyan's campus in the evening.

The Fred Young Field House was the location of many varied activities this past year.

Buildings

Back in 1850, the first students of Illinois Wesleyan held their classes in the basement of a small Methodist church in Bloomington. Since then, over forty-three buildings have been added to the campus. The oldest of these is Old North Hall, which was built in 1857. The largest was Hedding Hall, which burned down in 1943. The famous arch is all that is left of this gigantic structure. Presently the largest building on campus is Ferguson Hall, a girls' dormitory seven stories tall.

The future shows many more buildings on Wesleyan's campus. A grant for the building of a new library to replace Buck has been received. Plans for three new dormitories and a chapel have been made. New facilities also will include a natatorium and a bowling alley. Within two years, students will see the completion of four new fraternity and sorority houses. By 1970, all these buildings will be finished, and Wesleyan will be prepared to cope with its 1500 students.

New Student Week

This year New Student Week was definitely new! It actually began during the summer with a series of three weekend pre-college orientations for both new students and parents. Freshmen had the option of attending one of the weekends or the regular orientation in September.

For the summer program, the weekend began Friday night with a briefing session and a "get-acquainted" party at the Center. Early Saturday morning the familiar entrance tests were administered to the not-so-enthusiastic freshmen. Discussion sessions with various faculty members and campus leaders filled the remainder of the day. Altogether, 125 parents and students attended the summer orientation.

The traditional New Student Week began September 14, and once again, "freshies" were introduced to Wesleyan's famed registration lines. On Friday came the first preview of college classes and the strangeness of profs referring to students as "Mr." or "Miss." Ending this initial week of the 1964-65 year was the official all-school dance, "The Grind."

The dormitory rooms quickly become the new homes for the freshmen.

Dad's Day

If Election Day had been on October 31, 1964, Dad would certainly be President today! The theme for the day, "Dad for President," was effectively carried out with campaign buttons used for name-tags.

The "Meet the Professor" program proved to be beneficial as well as entertaining. Eleven instructors participated in this event, and parents signed up for a fifty minute session with one of them.

According to chairman Cathy Thompson and her committee, the number of dads at the pork chop barbecue was the biggest ever. The Apollo Quartet and cheerleaders provided the entertainment.

At the game that night, the North Park Vikings fell 23-14 to the Titans, but the way the defeat was accomplished proved the topic of discussion for the remainder of the evening.

Queens

On that balmy night of October 16, after the last candidate had emerged from her convertible, the usual tenseness preceding the crowning of a Homecoming Queen was again evideneed. However, almost a minute later, as the name of Peggy White was mentioned, a joyful eheering broke out.

A Kappa Delta sophomore from Peoria, Peggy announced that she was receiving the seeond shock of the day; the first being a rat bite in the psyeh lab. Inheriting the crown from last year's queen, Joan Shambrook, Peg wore it throughout the weekend Homecoming festivities. After everything was over, Peg's comment was, "It was just fabulous!"

Homecoming—"History Comes Home"

The memorable 1964 Homecoming, planned by co-chairmen Judy Elbert and Tim Townsend, began on Friday night with the crowning of queen Peggy White, the campus beast contest, Sig-Phi Gam rope pull, and the chariot race.

On the following Saturday morning, the parade wound its way down Main Street. Vividly colored floats, more elaborate than ever, added much to the enjoyment of the parade. The Marching Band, among other groups, was also especially effective.

Following the Alumni Luncheon came the game against Carthage. In previous years, Wesleyan has lost Homecoming games, but this year proved a very jubilant exception as the Titans bowled over Carthage 16-0.

Immediately after the game, the Kappas conducted a ground-breaking ceremony for their new house.

The dance, the climax of the weekend, featured Buddy Morrow and his orchestra. At this time the queen and her attendants were presented, and soon after, "History Comes Home—1964" officially ended.

Homecoming chairmen were Judy Elbert and Tim Townsend.

Elections

Political ramblings came out in full force on the IWU campus. Many activities inspired the politically-minded to participation in the campaign. Both Young Republicans and Young Democrats organized and came out strong for their candidates. Near the end of the campaign, both organizations joined forces to present the 1964 election views of the prominent members of each party. Shortly before the election, the consensus of the student body with regard to both the presidential and gubernatorial candidates was determined by a straw ballot.

Students also participated in fall campus elections, the sophomores, juniors, and seniors selecting their class officers, and freshmen selecting both senate representatives and class officers. Between the school and the national elections, the campus was not at a loss for slogans, posters, or banners.

The television in Memorial Center attracted a lot of attention the evening of the election.

Summer School

Each summer brings a multitude of activities to Wesleyan's campus. Many varied programs are presented including the independent study courses which are offered in every major field. Among these are the Summer Science Institute designed as a refresher course for high school science teachers, and College Credit in Escrow (C.C.I.E.). In the latter program, high school juniors in good standing are able to accumulate college credits and experience college life during the summer session. In addition, the Music Department sponsors a music camp which provides musical instruction under specialists in every field as well as recreation centered around the facilities of Lake Bloomington. The well-known Summer Stock company under the able direction of the Drama Department gives performances of "The Philadelphia Story", "The Big Knife", "Hedda Gabler", "See How They Run", and "Destry Rides Again". All of these plays were presented in the 1964 season.

Mother's Day

IWU Students jump at the chance to entertain the mothers.

Again last year, Wesleyan students honored their mothers on the first Sunday in May. The theme for the day was "A Mother's Picture," from a poem by Alice Cary. Cathy Thompson, chairman of this event, worked successfully with her committee to provide an enjoyable time for all those who attended.

After registration, a dinner was held for all students and their families. Guests included President and Mrs. Bertholf and Dean and Mrs. Walker. Unlike previous years, parents were not given the "treat" of going through the Commons' line for their food unless they wanted it.

The afternoon's entertainment included musical selections by the famous Apollo Quartet and the SAI chorus. Two solo numbers were given by Billie McBride, who presented a modern dance interpretation entitled "The Puppet," and by Phil Polito, who gave a dramatic reading.

A pleasant day ended with open houses and coffee hours at the dorms and Greek residences.

Convocations

Again this year Wesleyan sponsored a variety of speakers on eampus. The first semester was officially ushered in with the President's Convocation.

In October, British historian S. E. Gerard Priestly, a specialist in international relations, was featured. His main topie concerned the rise of Asian nations. Dr. Mabel Elliot, chairman of Sociology and professor at Chatham College in Pittsburgh, lectured in January. On Founders' Day, Dr. Carl Michaelson, a professor of Theology at Drew University, addressed students and faculty on "Modern Man and Collegiate Piety."

For the second semester plans were made for a music symposium and the traditional Honors Day presentations at the end of the year.

Mrs. Elliot, specialist in criminology, speaks on "Crime and Violence in the United States."

Lectureships and Symposiums

Among the distinguished guests presented throughout the diversified program of lectureships and symposiums was Dr. Edward Bauman, professor of theology at the American University, Washington, D.C. A race symposium, "White Line Freedom Barrier," featured NAACP speakers, open discussion periods, a freedom sing, and a movie.

Rabbi Herman Schaalman of Garrett Theological Seminary encouraged a deeper look at the Jewish faith. Different religious beliefs were examined further in the Ecumenical Symposium which introduced Father James Kavanaugh of the Catholic University, Washington, D.C., and E. Stanley Lowell, editor of "Church and State," as the main speakers.

At Founder's Day Convocation, Dr. Carl Michalson, professor of systematic theology at Drew University, discussed faith on the college campus today.

Three exchange students from 1963-64: Gail Carlson, Janet Haywood, and Carroll Mites.

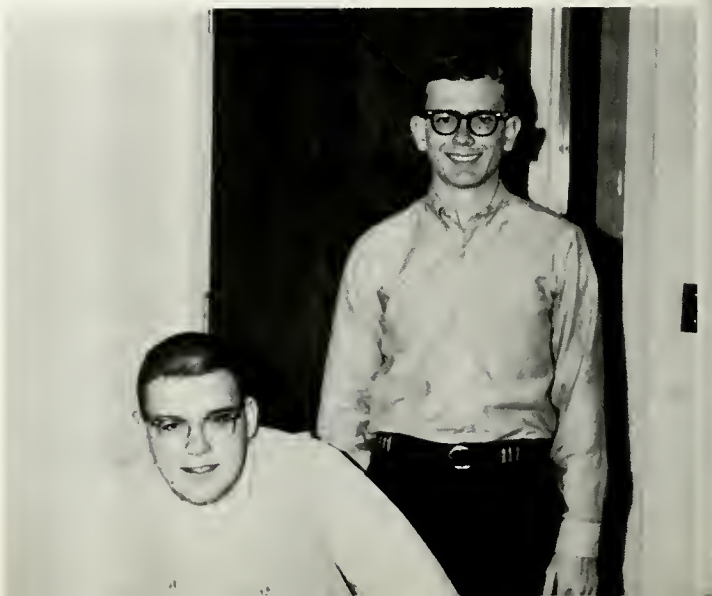
While studying at the American University, Carroll visited the White House with several other exchange students.

Exchange Student Program

Three different programs are offered to IWU's students who wish to spend one semester at another university. American University in Washington, D.C., offers the Washington Semester program, which brings a select group of students from all over the country to the nation's capitol for the purpose of studying the process of government first hand. The students have the opportunity of meeting with Congressional Committees and staffs, members of the Supreme Court, and other high legislative officials throughout the executive branch. The program offered at Drew University in Madison, New Jersey, gives students an opportunity to attend sessions of the United Nations in New York City and to study the work of the U.N. agencies. Spelman Women's College in Atlanta, Georgia, is a Negro college where IWU's students can become acquainted with another geographical area and can gain awareness of another aspect of American life. These three programs are not confined to political science majors, although a good background in this field is helpful. Wesleyan students who have participated in one of these programs will always remember their exchange semester as one of the most rewarding experiences of their college days.

The spiritual center of Spelman University is Sisters' Chapel.

Larry Bross is studying at American University and Mike Harvey at Drew.



Foreign Students

Aside from meeting the normal entrance requirements at Illinois Wesleyan, the only stipulation is that foreign students verify their capability of doing academic work in English. Seven countries are represented on our campus. English and French major, Priscilla Araya of Chile is our only resident from the South American continent. A junior majoring in psychology is Pak Wai Wu of Hong Kong. Yoshio Matsuyama, a Japanese citizen, will receive his bachelor's degree in music this June. Graduate music student from Korea, Heungboe Chun will receive her master's degree in June. Kon Swee Chen, a freshman pre-med student from Malaysia, is the newest arrival on campus. A Methodist minister from the Philippines is Arturo Capuli, who will receive his degree in Sociology this June. A resident of Southern Rhodesia is Josephine Chiza, a sophomore majoring in history.

Commencement

Sunday, May 31, 1964, dawned cool and cloudy in preparation for Wesleyan's 105th Commencement. The inclement weather, however, did not bother the dynamic address of House Republican whip Leslie C. Arends on "Today's Challenge." Among his many forceful remarks, Representative Arends called the IWU Commencement "part of the most significant political event of the year."

Following Arends' speech, degrees were presented to 263 students. Twenty-seven received master's degrees and 236 bachelor degrees were awarded.

The entire Graduation weekend began on Saturday. Reunion luncheons and dinners were well-attended. That afternoon, the Westbrook Auditorium in Presser Hall was officially dedicated in honor of Mrs. Arthur E. Westbrook. Following the Senior Breakfast on Sunday, the Baccalaureate Service was held at Wesley Methodist Church.

According to tradition, unengaged Seniors are required to suck lemons.

ACADEMIC

Mr. William T. Beadles

Dedication

Mr. William Beadles, Professor of Insurance, has been at Illinois Wesleyan for over forty years. He has served the university as both teacher and administrator; he has developed the business and insurance programs from minor courses in the economics department to full-fledged major sequences; he has co-edited several books and contributed to several journals in the insurance field. To such a man we proudly dedicate the 1965 WESLEYANA.

Faculty Projects

A number of our faculty have written articles for magazines and pamphlets, and a few have done work on major books.

Dr. Beadles, Professor of Insurance, is co-author of Law and the Life Insurance Contract and author of Principles of Life Insurance (1964), both used widely as college texts.

Dr. Shanks and Miss Kennedy, two instructors in the Nursing Department, were co-authors of The Theory and Practice of Nursing Service Administration. Drs. Stegner and VanderWaal have contributed chapters to this book.

In the foreign language department, Dr. Labarthe won high praise in the Argentine newspaper La Tribuna. In the article he is described as "one of the greatest poets today of Latin American literature and the Spanish language."

Dr. Neumeyer, head of the Music Department, has distinguished himself as a member of the Governor's Committee of the State Fine Arts Council and has served as consultant in music therapy in the State Department of Mental Health.

Miss Shanks, Ed.D., and Miss Kennedy, M.A., are co-authors of a new nursing textbook.

Mr. Ogdon spends much of his leisure time composing, and Mr. Neumeyer holds several positions of leadership outside the university.

Mr. Labarthe is a prolific poet and author.

President

President Bertholf has again admirably performed his duties as head of Illinois Wesleyan University. This year he has traveled extensively to give speeches and attend meetings in connection with the United Alumni Capital Campaign's effort to raise funds for the improvement of facilities and the construction of new buildings on the Wesleyan campus.

As the center of the administrative structure on campus, he presides over the powerful President's Council, where most of the decisions concerning the academic, administrative, and social policies of the school are made. President Bertholf also leads the monthly banquet of the All-University Council. The purpose of these banquets is to give student leaders a chance to get first hand knowledge concerning University plans.

The president discusses the United Alumni Campaign with John Saylor, chairman of the West Coast Alumni Association.

President Bertholf addresses students at the All University Council.

During a reception, Dr. Bertholf talks with Mrs. Chau.

Board members, Virgil Martin and Thomas Lugg, take a look at new building plans.

Board of Trustees

The Board of Trustees meets twice a year under the leadership of its President, Mr. Paul Allison, and Dr. Bertholf to consider the long range aspects of decisions related to the academic and social life of the Illinois Wesleyan student body and the university standards. The Board works through five subdivisions which deal with administrative, budgetary, and academic matters. Included in the five subdivisions is a recently formed Committee on Campus Life.

Currently the members are directing their efforts towards the plans concerning the improvement of the Wesleyan campus facilities. Planned additions include a new library, dormitories, natatorium, tennis courts, and an extension of the Memorial Center. This program will enable the University to maintain its standards of excellence in academic and social facilities.

The board trustees play an important part in the development of the university.

Mr. Walker, Ed.D., is Dean of the University.

Part of Miss Meierhofer's responsibility is to supervise activities of the Panhellenic Council.

Mr. Ruthenberg, Ed.D., is Associate Dean of Students.

Miss Meierhofer, M.A., is Dean of Students.

Three efficient administrators: Dr. Walker, Miss Meierhofer, Dr. Ruthenberg.

Mr. Ruthenberg discusses the problems of the Intrafraternity Council with its president, Denny Redding.

Deans

Located on the second floor of Holmes Administration Building are the offices of Illinois Wesleyan's three deans. Serving as Vice-President and Dean of the University is Dean Everette Walker. After receiving his Ed.D. Degree from Indiana University, he was added to our staff in 1961 as an administrative coordinator. Miss Anne Meierhofer, M.A., graduate of Northwestern University, serves as Dean of Students. She coordinates all campus activities, counsels students in dealing with personal and academic problems, and advises the Panhellenic Council. Associate Dean of Students is Dean Donald B. Ruthenberg, who received his Ed.D. from Denver University. Advising students and faculty on campus problems and aiding the Interfraternity Council are only part of his busy schedule. Aiding students with their financial problems is the Director of Financial Affairs, Mr. Lynn Nichelson, who received his M.S. from Indiana U.

Administration

The ambitious aim of Illinois Wesleyan University is to contribute both to the spiritual growth and the intellectual maturity of the students. This is realized by an able and energetic administration in cooperation with the deans and faculty. Throughout the year, students come in contact with many of its branches while other branches work behind the scenes to help further the IWU students' welfare. The departments most often visited are the Admissions Office, the bookstore, library, student center, and the Office of the Registrar. Further off the beaten path are the Publicity and Placement Offices, Health Center, Business Office, and Director of Development.

Mr. Oborn, Ph.D., is Vice President and Director of Development.

Mr. Short, Director of Admissions, interviews a prospective student from Schenectady, New York.

Mrs. Reed is Acting Registrar.

Mr. Troxel serves as Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association.

Mr. Nichelson, M.S., is Assistant Dean of Students.

Miss Arnold, R.N., serves as University Nurse.

Business Manager of the university is Mr. Kasch and Comptroller is Mr. Starkey.

Mr. Eddy is Director of the Memorial Student Center and the University Bookstore.

Mr. Dodds is Director of Placement and Mr. Banner is Director of Publicity.

Miss Smiley is Director of Food Services.

Speech Department

Speech, the basic tool of civilization, involves people in many fields. The Speech Department is an independent area of the Social Science Division. This department covers a broad spectrum of events, the newest being monthly speech hours. This event serves a two-fold purpose: it promotes unity, in that it allows speech majors to get together once a month; and it allows non-majors to get an idea of the various activities speech encompasses.

Perhaps the most well-known aspect of the department is its participation in competitive events. Unlike our athletic teams, delegates from the Speech Department are not faced with opponents from schools of the same size, or which are in the same "league", and yet, like the athletic teams, they have maintained a record of consistent excellence.

Before beginning to speak, Miss Robinson, Ph.D., awaits silence.

Dr. Robinson helps an advisee make out a tentative schedule of classes.

Lou Phinney makes frequent use of the Speech laboratory.

Mr. Burt, M.S., is Assistant Professor of Speech.

Mr. Carpenter, M.S., serves as Assistant Professor of Speech.

Mr. Ulrich, Ph.D., checks part of the apparatus used in departmental research.

Psychology

There can be no doubt that the Psychology department is one of the fastest growing departments on campus. Each year more and more students take psychology as a field of interest. In order to cope with this situation, the department has added two more men, Dr. Stachnik and Dr. Mabry, to its staff. In addition to the expansion of laboratory facilities, new courses were added to the curriculum. These include a general psychology course open to Freshmen and a technical course open to Seniors. This last summer the National Science Foundation awarded the Psychology department a summer grant. With this money, plans are being made for more improvement and expansion.

Business Department

Under the direction of Professor Luerssen, the Department of Business at Illinois Wesleyan tends to develop the leadership necessary for organizing the best suited plans when dealing with insurance, economics, and marketing. A variety of courses are available to those students who wish to specialize in business.

Many improvements have been brought about in the Business Department within the last year. Every course receives a new series of textbooks each year. Seniors specializing in Business Administration must participate in the Great Books of Business Seminar, where oral semester reports are given about the newest and most influential books of business. These improvements help keep the student up to date with the ever-changing problems of the business world. At Illinois Wesleyan, the Business Department is never behind the times.

A group of business students accompanied by Mr. Luerssen prepare to leave for a tour of the Libby Owens plant in Streator, Illinois.

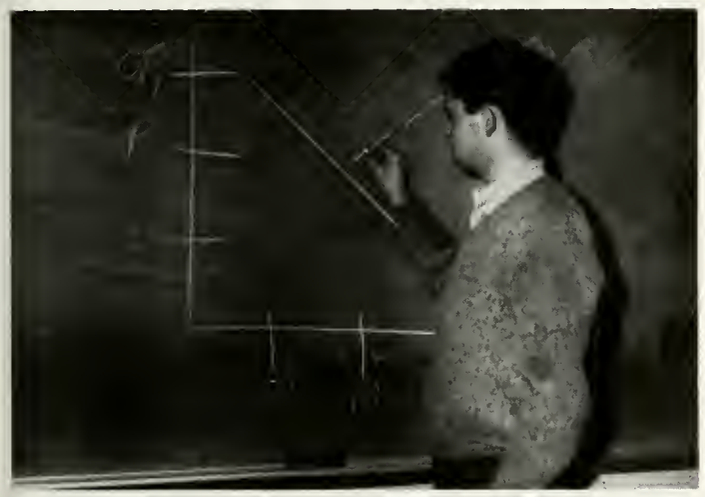
Mr. Luerssen, M.B.A., looks over the Wall Street Journal with his daughter, Jade.

Mr. Chau, Ph.D., is Professor of Economics.

Economics Department

The aim of the Eeonomics Department is to develop the student's ability to analyze objectively and critically the behavior of society in the production, exchange, and consumption of materials and services. The economics student also studies the various methods one uses to make a living. Under the direction of Dr. Chau, the department offers a major program qualifying students for positions in public administration and industry. It also prepares them for graduate work in economics and provides training for students majoring in other fields. Familiarity with the principles of economics enables the students to gain a better comprehension of the way in which the American way of life operates. Courses in this area are open to all students at Wesleyan.

Economics students sometimes make use of graphs.



Dr. Chau gives instructions to student assistant Dean Lowman.

Dr. Chau lectures his Public Finance class.

Sociology Department

The Department of Sociology, under the direction of Dr. Paul Miller, aims at providing the student with the desire and incentive to study and understand society and group relations. The courses are open with little prerequisites for non-majors as well as those majoring in related fields. Students are prepared for graduate study in sociology, the study of people living together in social groups; anthropology, the study of the characteristics and customs of people; and social work such as employment in social agencies and research. In their senior year, the students receive on-the-job training, which gives them both an apprenticeship in their chosen fields and a basis on which to make decisions concerning employment after graduation. Sociology is an aid toward understanding one's fellow man.

Paul Miller, Ph.D., is professor of sociology.

Mrs. Dale, M.S. in Ed., leads class discussion in one of her social science sections.

Mr. Beadles, D.B.A., is Professor of Insurance.

Mr. Yousri, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Insurance.

Insurance Department

Under the direction of Dr. Beadles, the Insurance Department strives to meet the needs of two types of students; the student who is majoring in either business or economics and is taking courses in insurance to supplement the courses in his field, and the student who desires to enter the insurance business.

Since most everyone buys insurance today, and since selling insurance is becoming one of the largest occupations in the United States, liberal arts students are encouraged to take courses in it. They would gain knowledge of risk and insurance and its application to practical situations. The experience the students receive in the course would be helpful to them in the future. At Illinois Wesleyan, the Insurance Department is one of the largest departments in the university.

Taking a break are local insurance men enrolled as special students at Wesleyan.

Education Department

"Seeking the ability to provide learning experiences rivaling those of a truant, we undergo the sometimes rewarding, sometimes excrutiating experience of student teaching."

One of the most important objectives of Wesleyan's ever growing Education Department is to help students to know the answers to the four most important questions of teaching: what, when, why, and how to teach. The knowledge gained by students who are practice-teaching is invaluable to their understanding of nature and the needs of school-age children. This experience prepares students to meet the qualifications necessary to teach at either the elementary or secondary levels.

Observation and actual class teaching are required of all, but some special provisions are made for those who hope to teach courses in art and music, since the time required of them prevents them from getting the usual experience.

Sue Clikeman leads elementary school students in making up "Just-so" stories.

Sue discusses her teaching program with her supervising teacher, Mr. Dickson.

Sue gives two of her students extra help.

Mrs. Meyer is serving this year as Assistant Professor of Education.

Within the department itself there is an undercurrent of expectation. In an effort to remain responsive to the changing image of the university, the Education Department has many plans in the offing. Although Dr. Paul Ross is retiring as head of the department in June, he is devoting the remainder of this year to developing an effective program for the eccentric semester, to be put into effect next year. This new system will consist of two long terms and one short term. The two long terms will cover the standard curriculum, while the short term will concentrate on one major subject.

Several departments in the School of Liberal Arts are working in cooperation with the education departments of other Illinois schools in studying proposed changes in the curriculums of prospective student teachers. This project is under the supervision of the Federal Board of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Chemistry

Now that Sherff Hall has been in use for over a year, it is apparent that the building has been a very good investment as far as lodgings for the Chemistry Department are concerned. Offered in the spacious, well-equipped laboratories are general chemistry, introduction to biological chemistry, quantitative analysis, organic chemistry, and physical chemistry. In addition to these courses are advanced inorganic chemistry, advanced organic chemistry, chemistry seminar, and various new curriculum courses. There is also a new senior research program which should give gifted science majors ample opportunity to explore their favorite interests in chemistry. A well-chosen curriculum of chemistry will prepare students to meet the requirements for entering the graduate schools of large universities, or teaching positions in high schools and laboratories; it will also prepare the student for a position in an individual laboratory.

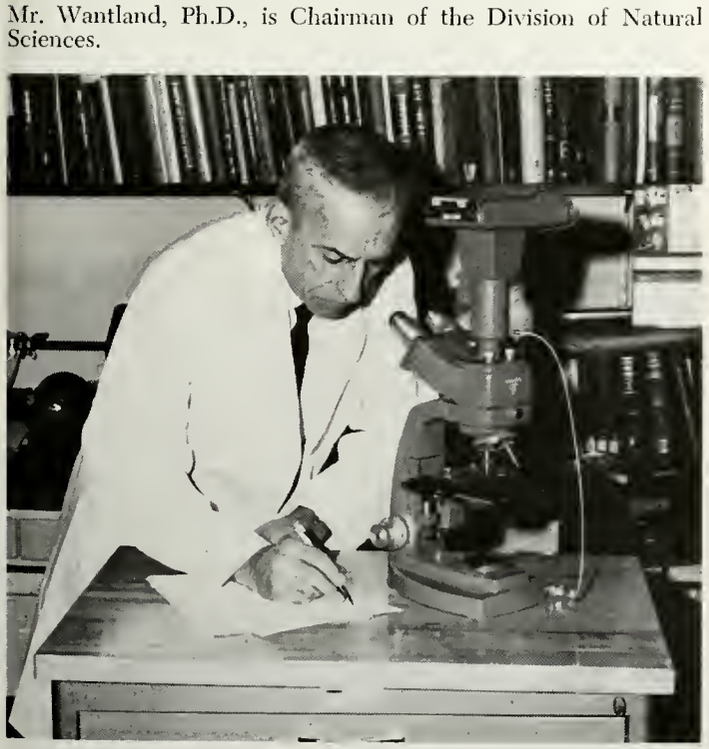
Mr. Wantland, Ph.D., is Chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences.

Mr. Darlington, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Natural Sciences.



Biology

The Biology Department has made good use of its facilities in Sherff Hall. Found among the courses in the new laboratories are general zoology, microbiology, comparative anatomy, embryology, and entomology. Also offered to interested students are geneties, parasitology, ecology, histology, animal physiology, and the most difficult course of a freshman nursing major, anatomy and physiology.

The Department of Biology is arranged so that it will facilitate the best possible preparation of a budding doctor, dentist, nurse, or medical technologist. The department offers its students the advantages of laboratory areas for research and completion of course requirements with the maximum amount of open-laboratory time. The courses offered also help develop, in Liberal and Fine Arts students, an appreciation of natural seience and a basic ground in thc field of biology. This field in itself is becoming of greater and greater importance for the average person in his daily life.

Mrs. Wantland, Ph.D., gives silent encouragement to students in their efforts at solving an algebraic equation.

Mathematics

Under the direction of Evelyn K. Wantland, Ph.D., and Douglas L. Daly, M.A., this past year, the Department of Mathematics initiated new course programs in order to better prepare students for graduate work in math. In order to allow students to complete more math courses, Advanced Calculus and Modern Algebra were expanded to two-semester courses while other basic courses were consolidated into one-semester terms. Along with the revision of the courses, new text books were used in the geometry courses. In such courses as Solid Geometry, rotational plastic models which created a feeling of solidity were used as visual aids. Through the revision and addition of these courses and procedures, the Department of Mathematics continues to acquaint students with one of the older branches of knowledge.

Mr. Daly, M.A., is Associate Professor of Mathematics.

Coffee and textbook—a familiar combination.

Mathematics is an important part of the physics problems that Keith Tiemann is checking.

Physics

The Physics Department, under the direction of Mr. Wilson, offers interesting courses both to students whose major interests lie in science and to those whose interests lie outside of this field. Keeping its high standards, the department has made several changes: the soldering-glass technique has been added, enabling students to make their own vacuum tubes; the observatory has also been overhauled so that better views of the solar system may be seen.

Often called the most perfect science, physics is involved in almost everything from switching on a light to splitting the atom. It gives one the sense of awareness of the universe around him, enabling him to have a clearer understanding of the world he lives in. Although small in size compared to other departments at IWU, the Physics Department is by no means small in importance.

Mr. Wilson, M.S., is Assistant Professor of Physics.

Concentration—a must for a physics major.

Dave Williams tries out the observatory telescope.

English

The English Department has taken on a new look this year in its continuing effort to adjust the curriculum to the needs of its students. This can be seen in the presence of visiting professor Buddhadeva Bose. Mr. Bose, who is an editor, writer, translator, broadcaster, and lecturer as well as an excellent teacher, has also traveled extensively throughout the world. Because of this varied background, Mr. Bose is able to present aspects of literature to which Wesleyan students might not otherwise be exposed.

In another area, the department has made further efforts to offer a broader and more vigorous progress. This year for the first time, exceptional freshmen were allowed to bypass the usual requirements and plunge immediately into upper level literature courses. This gives them an opportunity to fully develop their potential capabilities.

Mr. Stegner, Ph.D., teaches Greek and religion.

Religion

In the Religion department students acquaint themselves with Christian thought. Academically, the courses offered challenge one to consider the intellectual formulations of the Christian faith, to teach the contents of the biblical heritage, to instill the awareness of its crucial role in the development of Western civilization, and to acquaint one with religions outside the Judeo-Christian world. Personally, it provides the student with the opportunity to examine his own faith and help himself in his religious commitment, integrity, social relationships, and life work. This year a new honor section for Religion 100 has been added. Freshmen will also be able to participate in the accelerated semester seminar.

Mr. White, M.A., serves as University Chaplain as well as a professor of religion.

Wesleyan is fortunate in having Mr. Schuster, M.H.L., rabbi, as an instructor in Biblical studies.

Mrs. Meyers, M.A., is Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Humanities.

Dr. VanderWaal and his Contemporary Philosophy class enjoy the relaxed atmosphere of the Dug-Out.

Philosophy

For those students who show a love for wisdom, the Department of Philosophy offers courses which give one a broader and more mature view of his physical and social universe. The aim of such courses as ethics, logic, and esthetics is to stimulate individual thought by presenting contrasting ideas; this is done by investigating the thoughts and ideas of the world's greatest philosophers. Students learn what courses of knowledge they can trust as they attempt to deal with philosophical problems which have confronted man since the beginning of time. Philosophy is a field which deals with all aspects of life because it enables one to see the relevance of age-old problems of life.

History

History, the study of the past, present, and future is more than a tradition at Illinois Wesleyan. It is a part of the student's life. The department seeks to aid its students in understanding better the world in which they live. In this way they may become better citizens and have a greater influence in the affairs of the community in which they may reside. International, local, and national happenings have emphasis in the study of overall history. The Department of History stresses understanding of affairs throughout the world in order that the students may better appreciate the government and economic system under which they live. History is the mainstay of society as are the students who make up the society.

Political Science

The department of political science at Illinois Wesleyan is that time-honored part of the university which stimulates political life and protects the citizen's rights. This department attracts many students who are interested in public service, law practice, or work in journalism. Students gain first-hand experience in politics, international organization and local government through exchange studies at Drew and Washington universities, city hall internships, independent research and attendance at the Little UN Assembly. The dedicated faculty of this department seeks to aid students in their search for understanding of this complex, changing world which they will govern in the future years. Political science is, as President Johnson has said, "The art of the possible." To the student and the department, political science is more than a discipline, it is the possible explanation to the problems of the world and the solution to world peace.

Mrs. Foster, M.A., is the Assistant Professor of Home Economics.

Home Economics

It is the purpose of the Home Economics Department to prepare students for careers in professional and business occupations. It seeks to develop leadership by strengthening home and family life as well as the individual well being. It also prepares those majoring in home economics to teach in vocational or non-vocational schools. These people also find opportunities in social welfare, dietary needs, and fashion. They can find work in demonstration techniques, lunchroom programs, or research. Non-majors find home economics beneficial in marriage in that they are taught to be better organized and are more able to cope with such problems as home management and child care.

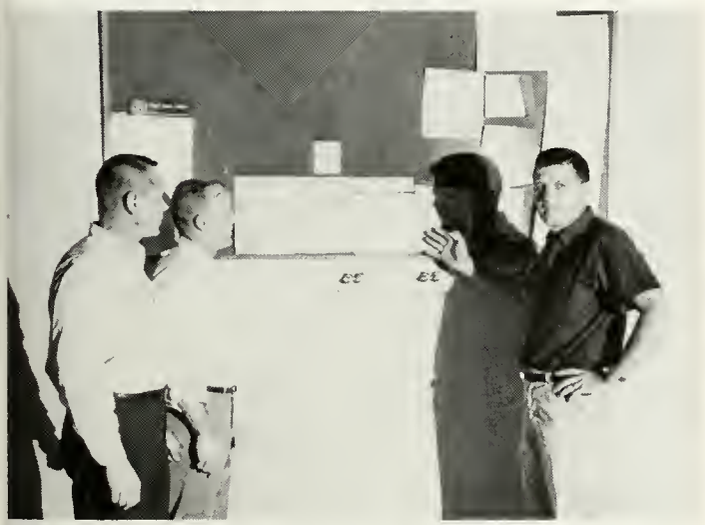
Men's and Women's Physical Education

Mr. Horenberger, M.S., is Associate Professor of Physical Education and Director of Athletics. He has been at Wesleyan since 1942.

Mr. Larson, M.Ed., Mr. Bridges, B.S., and Mr. Keck, M.S., have contributed much to the university's athletic success.



Mrs. Winkler, M.S., returned to the physical education department this year.

Along with the general academic and social aims of Illinois Wesleyan, the Department of Physical Education aims at developing good health, an appreciation of exercise for general physical fitness, a democratic spirit of citizenship and cooperation, and an appreciation of activities in all students. These aims are met through the integration of learning and living physical education knowledge, skills, attitudes, and habits for four of the student's eight semesters. The wide variety of courses offered are grouped under four headings: (1) service courses for men; (2) service courses for women; (3) service courses for both men and women; (4) theory courses.

Foreign Language

In a world that is progressively shrinking in time of travel and continually expanding in population, the ability to understand languages of different cultures is becoming more and more important. Helping to answer this need for mutual communication is Wesleyan's Foreign Language Department. Offering elementary, intermediate, and advanced courses in French, Spanish, German, and Greek, the department emphasizes the cultural values of the respective countries. Also emphasized in the classroom is the oral work because of the importance of understanding not only grammatical basics, but also the meaning of conversations as they apply to cultural environment. Valuable aids in this are the language and updated textbooks which are the most comprehensive the University can buy.

School of Art

The School of Art at Illinois Wesleyan University was only a China painting class for young ladies back in 1905. This slowly developed into an Art Department with the usual academic existence that is associated with Art Departments in small colleges.

In 1945, Professor Kenneth B. Loomis came to Wesleyan and revitalized the entire Art Department. Under his direction, the Art Department became a separate school in the College of Fine Arts, and the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree was established in 1947. At this time, Mr. Rupert Kilgore replaced Professor Loomis. As a result, enrollment in the School of Art grew rapidly. Soon there were 95 art majors and five full-time teachers.

Today there are 100 art majors and four full-time teachers. The Art Department consists of four buildings located one block south of Memorial Center. The Art Building includes a painting studio and the Ceramics Department. The Studio Building, just north of Blackstock, contains the individual studios for upperclass students.

Mr. Kilgore, M.A., is Professor of Art and the Director of the School of Art.

Mr. Brian, M.F.A., is Associate Professor of Art.

Freshman Stephanie Vivian appears to be totally absorbed in her art work.

These studios vary in size and will accommodate from one to three painters. Whether an art major receives a studio or not depends upon the quality of his work. If his work is above average, he may work in a three-man studio. If his work is superior, he may receive his own one-man studio to work in. However, in order to keep this studio, he must maintain the quality of his art. If he does not, he may find that his studio is taken away from him. The Gallery Building has studios equipped for painting, commercial art, sculpture, and ceramics; in addition are two exhibition galleries, one of which doubles as a lecture room. Lecture equipment includes a screen, projector, and around sixteen thousand slides. In the basement of Blackstock Hall is the printmaking equipment. Here are three studios for work in all print mediums. Equipment includes a lithograph press and an etching press. Both are geared floor models. Extreme emergency for want of more space led the art department to take over the top floor of Old North Hall for freshman design classes.

Sometime in the future, a new Art Building will be built. To be situated next to McPherson Hall, the building will be large enough to accommodate all the equipment and classes which presently take up the four art buildings. Although the Art Department is doing fine work now, a major improvement can be expected when the new building is used.

Drama Department

The ever growing school of Drama is back to full staff this year after Dr. Tucker's recovery from his recent illness. Although the season really did not begin until the fall, note should be taken of the hectic 1964 summer stock season. The Wesleyan Summer Stock company put on five shows in eight weeks, had fun, and gained much valuable experience, but not without sustaining several casualties.

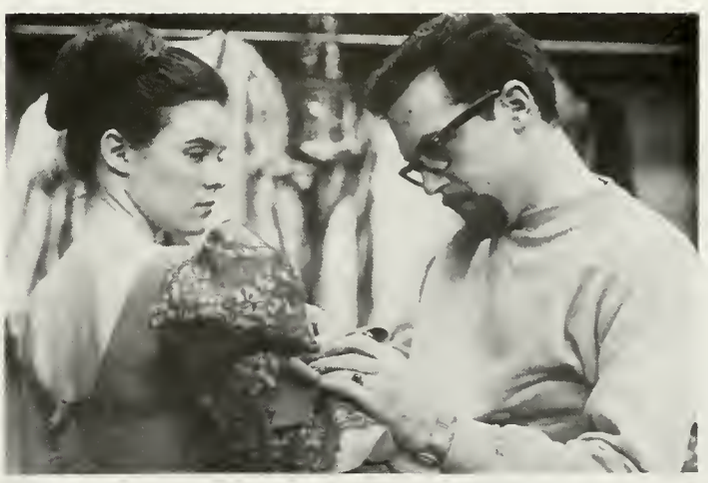
During the school year, the Drama Department makes its mark almost everywhere on campus. This year the school put on four plays: "Take Her She's Mine", a contemporary comedy; "The Miracle Worker", the inspiring story of Annie Sullivan's work with Helen Keller; and "The Merchant of Venice", a well-known Shakespearean comedy of fancy.

Apart from the busy schedule that the play productions necessitate, the drama students found time to put on an unusual and very effective chapel program, perform for Dad's Day and Mother's Day, participate in the Contemporary Arts Festival in the spring, and assist the Music School in its operatic efforts. The Drama Department planned and presented a convocation also in the spring, and sponsored several guest lectures.

High on the list of plans for the near future is a project which will make the already well equipped McPherson Theatre even better than ever. Among its many other functions, the box office is soon to serve as a library. This library will include a variety of plays which will be made available to drama majors for the purpose of giving them a wide and well-founded background.

Mike Hughes does a last minute rehearsal of lines before going on stage.

Mr. Ascareggi adjusts a bow on Pat Bass' costume.



The drama students all contribute their skills in one area or another to mainstage productions. Even the costumes are usually hand-sewn from patterns drawn up by members of the department.

The newest activities in the Drama School are the five experimental shows presented for the first time this year. Five talented seniors were chosen to supervise these projects: Sylvia Ketel, Bruce White, Phil Polito, Don Ellis, and Judy Lennon. For each show the chosen senior selected a script and cut it to run forty-five minutes. He then cast and directed the production, making it truly "his project". The plays were performed, free of charge, for the general public.

The casting of these experimental shows was limited to freshmen and sophomores, and gave those who were not involved in mainstage productions an opportunity to get a taste of the acting end of the work.

The experimental plays were presented "in the round", in the new small theater under the mainstage.

The School of Drama offers good training and experience to anyone interested in teaching, acting, or directing.

School of Music

Being ranked as one of the top three music schools in the Midwest attests to the fact that Illinois Wesleyan University's School of Music has long been well-known for its ability to graduate many outstanding performers and music teachers.

All music students receive extensive training in theory, performance, music history, and literature. In addition to training in these subjects, majors in Music Education attend methods classes and undergo a semester of supervised student teaching. Music majors often discover that it is harder to get through the School of Music than it is to get through the School of Liberal Arts.

Janet Faleskin is one of several music students who give lessons to Bloomington residents.

Mr. Donalson rehearses a part from "Madame Butterfly" with pianist Gene Cline.

The School of Music offers many diversified musical experiences for the university's students. One annual event which has become famous throughout the nation is the Symposium of Contemporary Music held in early spring. Featured in this year's Symposium was a performance by a wind ensemble, narrators, and dancers of Igor Stravinsky's complete L'Historie du soldat. Besides the symposium the Faculty Concert series affords an opportunity for many of the School of Music faculty members to display their talents.

Improvements in the School of Music and its increase in size have made it possible for the same fine development of music majors to continue in the future.

Sylvia Monti and Ruth McGonagil appear in an excerpt from "Madame Butterfly" in a performance of the annual "An Evening of Opera."

A valuable asset to the university is the listening library in Presser which houses about four thousand record albums.

Mrs. McCord, S.M.M., is Professor of Organ and Sacred Music.

School of Nursing

The School of Nursing is expanding rapidly. This fall more freshmen entered Wesleyan as potential student nurses than ever before. In an attempt to accommodate the high school students on the extensive waiting list, plans for growth have been adopted in several areas.

The new Stevenson Hall, a remodeled, larger version of the present Stevenson Hall, is scheduled to open in the fall of 1965. It is hoped that this will enable the Nursing School to accommodate more than its present 100 students.

In the area of curriculum, too, adjustments are being made. Students may enter on a five-year plan next fall. Those entering on this program will take general liberal arts courses for their first year and then, in their sophomore year, enter into the clinical and nursing class phase of their training. This will enable them to have many degree requirements out of the way, allowing the choice of electives.

Miss Shanks, Ed.D., is Director of the Brokaw Collegiate School of Nursing.

One of the advantages of taking professional training in conjunction with a program of liberal arts, besides a degree, is the opportunity for nursing students to take an active part in campus activities. Many of them have felt less isolated since more of their classes have been scheduled on campus in Sherff Hall this year.

In order to make certain that the Nursing School is represented well on campus, there are nurses who serve on the Curriculum Committee, Public Relations Committee, Student Welfare Commission, and Academic Affairs Committee.

One of the newest projects of the Nursing School is Alpha Tau Delta, a professional sorority. Formed in cooperation with a national nursing sorority, this project will be fully developed by next year. Although still in the organization stages, the requirement of a 2.5 grade average has been decided upon.

The Nursing School offers practical experience in conjunction with Brokaw, Peoria Methodist, and Mennonite hospitals, Gailey Eye Clinic, and Bartonville State Hospital. Because they are faced with different types of patients in different types of ward situations, the student nurses have a varied background on which to base rewarding and useful careers.

Research

This past year saw many Wesleyan faculty members conducting various research projects of their own. Dr. Franzen is doing an anatomical and systematic study of a family of land snails known as succineidae. This study is now supported by the National Science Foundation.

Dr. Kulfinski of the Biology Department is conducting a survey of various chemical compounds affecting the growth of some of the higher forms of plant life. From the results obtained he hopes to determine the chemical compounds affecting the growth of the lower types of plant life.

Also in the Science Department, Dr. Wantland is beginning an eight-year experiment of incidence, ecology, morphogenesis, and cyto-chemistry of oral protozoa, which is supported by the National Institute for Dental Research.

The Psychology Department, under the direction of Dr. Ulrich and his assistants, has been conducting research concerned with the effects of aversive events as they influence acquisition and maintenance of avoidance behavior. With the change in this department since 1961, much emphasis has been placed on student research. The final two courses a psych major at Wesleyan needs to complete concern an individual project for which the student gains four hours credit. A summer session is also offered for outstanding high school students before they enter their senior year.

Turning from the natural sciences to art, Mr. McNeil exhibits many of his paintings. This past year some of his work was shown at a bank in town. For use in both the social sciences and art, Wesleyan purchased the John Krupp artifacts collection, which includes about 8,000 objects related to Indian culture. Indian tools, weapons, clothing, and other objects have been collected since 1870 by Mr. Krupp, a Glen Ellyn insurance man, and his father. One unique artifact bears an engraving of a dog on one side and a human likeness on the other.

The Library

Throughout the year Buck Memorial Library has been the focal point for learning in the students' academic life. Students could always be seen utilizing the library facilities. This year under the direction of the head librarian, Rodney Ferguson, the library staff expanded its field of service by publishing a library handbook and a monthly newsletter. The handbook not only introduced the students to the library, but also explained how to use its facilities intelligently. As a means of communication between the librarians and the faculty members, the Library Newsletter contained articles of general campus interests and concern. Since the primary campus concern was the new library building, the main article of each issue discussed some aspect of the building. Some of the other topics discussed were: "Reserve Books", "Protecting the Library's Resources Against Theft and Mutilation", "The Dilemma of Good Book Selection Procedures", and "Why Does It Take So Long to Get Books and Process Them?".

Students find the library check-out service generally efficient.

In Memoriam

In the past year Illinois Wesleyan has lost two of its most highly respected faculty members. The influence and personality of Dr. William E. Schultz will always be felt. His quiet manner, friendliness, and twinkle in the eye as he made a witty comment or told a good pun won for him the love of all who knew him. His genuine love of drama, athletics, music, and writing prompted him to be a familiar figure at many campus activities. Besides being the head of the English department for many years, he was school historian and founder of many organizations on campus.

Joseph D. Kelley, an alumnus of Wesleyan, has left his mark on his Alma Mater. In 1956, he became Registrar, running a smooth, efficient office. Like Dr. Schultz, he too, had diverse interests. His service in athletics showed itself not only in his refereeing of high school games but also in his membership on Wesleyan's Committee of Athletic Relations. He supplemented the work of full-time teachers in the Education department by doing part-time teaching. In fact, his life was spent in serving not only Illinois Wesleyan but his community and church as well.

HALL

Living

As the student lives through his college years, he learns that university life is half academic and half learning how to live with people. Since the majority of students live in dorms, they must learn how to cooperate with their roommates and neighbors. Wesleyan's dormitories offer social programs designed to give the student an opportunity to get out more on campus and to know more people. Usually the dorms hold two formals and informals per year. Students living in dorms can also participate in such activities as building floats for Homecoming or playing on a team for intramurals.

Ferguson Hall

Ferguson Hall, the newest and tallest of Illinois Wesleyan's dorms, serves as the campus home for over 170 women. Under the supervision of Mrs. Lavonna Johnson, the activities on the seven floors are run smoothly. Ferguson is unique in owning and using an intercom system which connects each room with the main desk.

The "Fergie girls" actively participate in intramural sports on campus. They work hard for good grades and strive to keep Illinois Wesleyan's traditions high. Twice a month these girls hold Vesper services to maintain their religious attitudes. Despite the fact that an elevator breaks down now and then, the residents always manage to remain cheerful and friendly. It is not just the size of the dorm but also the character of its residents that impresses visitors.

Their social calendar was full of events last year. A seaside theme was used for the fall informal, "Dec-Rec." At Christmas time the dorm presented a party exclusively for its girls where they decorated trees with home-made ornaments. In February, another informal, "My Funny Valentine," was given. A successful year closed with the spring formal.

Gulick Hall

Many of the upperclassmen coming back this year were startled when they saw that the familiar "Southwest" Hall had been renamed. The school year started officially when the House Council sang, almost on tune, the melodious "Gulick Girl" song to a gathering of the 152 residents of newly-christened Gulick Hall and quickly launched into an informal, "Cool and Swift". Shortly afterward, the Gulick girls proudly received the first place women's award for Homecoming house decs with "The Defeat of Carthage, 2000 A.D." The winter formal, "Snowflake Swirl," with Gulick's recreation room magically transformed into a winter wonderland, climaxed first semester activities. The highlight of second semester was a March dinner-dance at the Holiday Inn. Other parties, featuring hootenannies and skits, rounded out the dorm's activities. The girls enjoyed their dorm life and found welcome guidance from Gulick's favorite resident, Mother Tull.

Pfeiffer Hall

Pfeiffer Hall, one of the most popular girls' dormitories at Illinois Wesleyan, normally has a capacity of 130. However, due to unexpectedly high enrollment, the residents were forced to convert their lounge to living quarters. In addition to this, many girls from Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority lived in the dorm this year until their new house was completed. Although this overcrowding caused some problems when the girls tried to study, the addition in numbers proved to be welcome during social events.

Two informal and formal dances marked Pfeiffer's social calendar as well as frequent get-togethers in different rooms of the dorm after hours. Television also provided some entertainment for the girls when homework was done.

One of the most unique events ever to happen in Pfeiffer Hall was the formation of the "77 Club" last year. The club was formed to promote Larry Bross, whose number is 77, as the Best Man On Campus. Because of their efforts, Larry was elected the B.M.O.C., and the "77 Club" gained fame throughout the campus.

DeMotte Lodge

DeMotte Lodge, in its first year as a men's dormitory, housed ten men of many and varied interests. The small size of the dormitory helped to unify the individual personalities, creating a feeling of close harmony whieh is often difficult to acquire in a large residence hall. Mrs. Turner, the housemother, also aided in achieving a friendly atmosphere by becoming a second mother. She prepared numerous snacks and made frequent use of her sewing machine.

Most of the entertainment at DeMotte was impromptu: snowball fights, caroling, bull sessions, and informal games. Another favorite occupation of the men of DeMotte was watching television. Often on Thursday night, the residents of Munsell would crowd by the set and wateh Trebor and his "Way Out" program.

Kemp Hall

Built by the Antione DeMange family in 1906 for $80,000, Kemp Hall was aequired by Illinois Wesleyan in 1912 for $40,000. Since then it has been used to house men, women, a Navy V-5 unit during World War II, and the university administration.

During this school year Kemp Hall housed forty men. The men were led by their fearless president, Dick Mund, who was aided by Vice-President George Schuitema, Secretary-Treasurer Dick Cheatham, and Soeial Chairman Diek Keiler.

In their first attempt at building a "house dee" the men suspended a flying saucer, complete with invading redmen, between the trees in front and the house itself.

The fall informal was entitled, "Tom Jones, 1964". To set the mood for this dance, the first floor was decorated in the same way it would have been during the Eighteenth Century. Another successful project this year was the furnishing of coffee and doughnuts to the residents during final examinations.

Blackstock Hall

Blackstock Hall is a rather unique men's residence hall. It is an elaborate home which was donated to Illinois Wesleyan back in 1937. It has a capacity of twenty men. The small number of men and the "homey" atmosphere of the house provide an ideal environment for the men to be able to enjoy the varied personalities with whom they live. Although there are not many planned activities, there is hardly ever a time when the men can't find something to do. Most of the activities are "planned" spontaneously and include such things as card games in the second-floor hall, bull-sessions in one of the rooms, football games in the front yard, and basketball games wherever there is a semblance of a basket and a ball. However, there is one planned activity. This is the spring informal which consists of a baseball trip to St. Louis.

Blackstockers appear to be entranced by the silver screen.

It's about that mid-term pressure.

Franklin Hall

Freshman enthusiasm and upperclassman leadership proved to be one of Franklin Hall's greatest assets. James Cooper and his intramural team established the dorm's prowess in athletics by tying for first place in the intramural basketball tourney and taking an unopposed first place in football and hockey. The dorm was also well represented in varsity sports with the dorm president, Phil Ballard, and floor counselor, Randy Nelson, on the starting eleven of IWU's football team. Freshman Bob Jenson is also expected to be a key part of the upcoming basketball team.

All was not sports, however, for during the Christmas season Franklin demonstrated its spirit by having its annual Christmas party for over fifty homeless and underprivileged children.

Munsell Hall

Munsell Hall, one of the three temporary student residences, is a gray and white frame building located just north of Ferguson Hall. Although this small men's residence is termed as temporary, the nineteen men who lived there first semester and the sixteen men who made it their home second semester requested to return to Munsell both times. According to Art Kimball, Munsell Hall's spokesman, "the men like the small pleasant atmosphere of living in a house rather than in a dorm." Also returning with the men was their housemother, Mrs. Louis Kuhn. Because of their small number, the men do not sponsor many campus activities as a group. Oftentimes though they may be seen in a rousing game of intra-house football—when they're not studying that is!

Magill Hall

Under the leadership of Mrs. Naomi McKinney, head resident, and dorm officers John Rudzinski, Jim Vogt, Kieth Tiemann and Fred Cramer, the Men of Magill responded to the challenge of the school year with a vigor that was evident in all their activities. At Homecoming, Magill won first place in the house decorations competition with its "CCI Ticker." Around Christmas, the "Phantom Midnight Carolers" added a touch of yuletide to the frosty morning air on several occasions. The highlight of the social season was the winter formal, "Carnations in Snow." Two informals, "Hey, You!" and "The Black Cat-astrophe," were also highly successful. The most unique dorm event of the year was the second semester "keg party," where the men, mugs in hand, quickly drained a large keg of root beer.

Greek Life

College life is accentuated and reinforced in the ideals of the Greek system. Within its bond of brotherhood, men and women are inspired to high goals not only socially and culturally, but academically as well, thus broadening the individual.

The cooperation and competition displayed between the thirteen houses promotes activity and leadership on campus. Greek Sing, Greek Variety Show, and Greek Week are all examples of this mutual effort for improving campus relations and organization.

Alpha Gamma Delta

Alpha Gamma Delta, whose letters represent sisterhood and good times to its members, is a well-known sorority both locally and nationally. Within the confines of their gracious home, many festivities highlighted the year in both social and academic activities. Soon after rush, the pledges presented an informal, "Cartoon Capers" at which the girls and their dates came as marching cartoon characters. Laughter reigned at an impromptu celebration of Halloween which enveloped everyone, including the housemother, at supper that night.

The true holiday spirit pervaded over "Mystique", the winter dance, and the fun-filled tree trimming party. Highlighting the social whirl was "Tara", the beautiful spring formal reminiscent of Southern plantations, regal banquets, and entrancing balls. The house was transformed to one of by-gone days and warmer climate for a truly memorable occasion.

Pledges and actives alike worked on the annual Altruistic Dinner in its project to raise funds for cerebral palsy research. Many students were eager participants in the informal "make-it-yourself" meal which has become a tradition on campus as well as a beneficial affair.

Since the date of its local founding in 1914, the tradition of Alpha Gamma Delta continues to grow. The symbols of Alpha Gamma Delta: the buff and crimson rose; the pearl; and their colors: red, buff, and green; represent a wealth of sisterhood. It is not just a social sorority, but one formed to improve its sisters academically as well. It strives to keep its image on campus as a group dedicated to the welfare of all students. Alpha Gamma Delta is indeed a sorority to be proud of.

Alpha Omicron Pi

"If you aren't an AOPi, then be an AOPi pledge!" Sixteen girls took the song to heart this fall as they traveled to rush parties through the "Land of Roses," "The Far West," and "Gaslight" to become pledges of the Beta Lambda chapter.

The first effort of which they were a part was receiving the scholarship trophy retired to the AOPi house for the past three years. Hawaii entered the scene as the new sisters put on the annual "Pineapple Party."

While many of the freshmen "fell for Freundt" in their elections, Sammy Spider became the AOPi mascot as he helped Peg Snyder win a senior office. Homecoming 1964 will be remembered as when they won the trophy and then lost it. The outcome of the entire episode was an exchange of shaft kegs with Theta Chi, numerous serenades, and loss of sleep.

As the pledges soon realized, AOPi is more than just a name on Wesleyan's campus. For their philanthropic project they sent mittens, old clothes, and money obtained from auctions to the Frontier Nursing Service in Kentucky. In the spring they turned artistic as they repainted playground equipment at a nursery.

Concerning campus activities, Beta Lambda chapter had girls in such organizations as Phi Kappa Phi, Egas, Student Senate, Delta Phi Delta, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Gamma Upsilon.

Parties are part of an AOPi's life. For example, the winter informal, "Snowed Inn," provided the girls with an opportunity to display their talents in making bids, which ranged from kegs to hockey sticks and mittens.

This summer Beta Lambda will be co-hostess at the national convention in St. Louis. Second semester plans were busily underway for a skit and table decorations for the banquet.

Due to the addition, all actives can now live in the house.

Kappa Delta

"We are proud to wear this pin, Kappa Delta"—and the pride is felt by all of the members of Omicron Chapter here at Illinois Wesleyan. Friendship circles after hours, candlelight ceremonies, "Vulture's Club", Friday night dinners with occasional houseboy entertainment—all these things and more combine to make the Omicron Chapter a closely knit unit of sisters.

Kappa Delta, a national sorority, was founded at Longwood College in Farmhouse, Virginia in 1897. Since then, it has expanded to over 103 chapters in various colleges and universities. The Omicron Chapter of KD was established here at Wesleyan in 1908. The white rose is the sorority flower. The Kappa Delta colors are green and white, and its jewels are the emerald and the pearl.

The KD was honored by reigning as Queen over Homecoming weekend activities. On the following weekend the Chapter house was converted into a street scene in New Orleans as the pledge class presented their fall informal, "Basin Street Blues." The Christmas season brought Santa Claus and his Kappa Delta helpers with carols and gifts for forty children of the Lucy Morgan Home. The winter dinner-dance found the KD's celebrating the Holidays in the old-fashioned tradition of a warm fire, long dresses, and a popcorn and cranberry decorated tree. The KD's participated in Greek Week, Campus Carnival, and women's sport activities. During the year, fraternity exchanges provided an enjoyable break from studies and classes. At the first hint of spring, the KD's could be found closing their eventful year with the gala annual "Beachcomber" dance.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Established in 1873, just three years after Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded nationally, Epsilon Chapter, the first sorority on Wesleyan's campus, can boast of an active and rewarding year.

Pledging seventeen girls and breaking ground for the long-awaited new chapter house sparked the first semester for the members of Kappa Kappa Gamma. The pledges entertained the actives and their dates at the annual fall pledge informal, "Oh, We're from K.K.G." As their philanthropic project, the pledges sang for and visited with the residents of Heritage Manor. The girls of the golden key, blue and blue, and fleur-de-lis were all on hand for the ground-breaking exercises held on Homecoming Day. The new house is slated to be completed by the fall of 1965. Throughout the year, the Kappas participated in several fraternity exchanges as well as sponsoring parties such as the Christmas Tree party which is held for the professors' children.

Paired with Sigma Chi, the Kappas took first place in the homecoming float contest with their red, white, and blue representation of Betsy Ross "Sewing Up Another Victory." The Kappas and the men of Phi Gamma Delta presented a skit called "A Night in Saigon" and won second place in Greek Variety Show.

Members of Epsilon Chapter captured top positions on campus such as Student Senate Secretary, class senators and members of senate commissions. Scholastically speaking, Kappa was well represented with members in Egas, Green Medallion, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Phi Kappa Phi. Other Kappas were active as officers of student clubs, members of the cheerleading squad, and chairmen of Homecoming and Dad's Day.

Alumnae and actives alike watched eagerly the ground-breaking of the new chapter house on East and Graham.

The gingerbread home on Main Street had its last year as the home of the Kappas.

Sigma Kappa

Take a pearl, a violet, a golden triangle upon a background of lavender and maroon, and you will find the symbols of Sigma Kappa sorority as it was established in 1874. Ever since its founding on Illinois Wesleyan's campus in 1906, Eta Chapter has been a vital part of Wesleyan's way of life.

In campus activities the Sigma Kappas have shown their diversity by participating in a wide variety of organizations and events including operas, art shows, and honorary societies. To further broaden their interests, the girls enjoyed talks with such people as Lillian Budd, SK and famous authoress who spoke on writing as a career and world travel. Linda Norton, another SK recently returned from work in the Philippines, discussed the many aspects of life in the Peace Corps with all the young women who have dreams of those "far-away-places."

"Autumn Leaves" of the first informal fell in gay profusion on the SK's and their guests as a signal of approaching winter and the Christmas formal "Crystal and Snow." This traditional dinner-dance was celebrated in the warm glow of the fireplace, holly balls, and mistletoe. In addition were the cozy get-togethers over cocoa and donuts, graciously provided by Mother Youngdahl; songs before the fire; serenades and fraternity exchanges—all a part of the strong bond of sisterhood found in Sigma Kappa.

Throughout the year the girls visited the elderly people in Heritage Manor to provide conversation and entertainment for the residents and also collected clothing for the Lucy Morgan home as their philanthropy project. In all aspects of college life, Sigma Kappas extend to all their open motto, "One heart, one way."

Acacia

Eight years ago, a small group of Illinois Wesleyan students banded together to form the Alpha Kappa Alpha local fraternity. A few months later, this local affiliated with Acacia national fraternity. Since then, Acacia has risen in both size and rank on Illinois Wesleyan's campus and shows no signs of stopping.

Nationally, Acacia is not a little-known fraternity. It is a charter member of the National Interfraternity Conference and has been a power in the national Greek system for many years. Well-known Acacians include William Howard Taft, former President of the United States; William Jennings Bryan, famous lawyer; and James Webb, head of NASA.

Acacians on campus hold many important positions in varied fields. Larry Bross and John York are among those who represent the Men of the Black and Gold in athletics. Socially, Al Carnine and Richard McClannahan help boost the fraternity's social image on campus. Scholars like Steve Johnson and Allen Anderson help keep Acacia's grade average high.

Among the many formals and informals held last year, the pledge informal, "Neanderthal Nite", was especially exciting because it was during this dance that the pledges took their walkout and kidnapped the author of this article. In the spring, the "Nite on the Nile" was held. At this informal, the brothers and their dates came dressed in the styles of ancient Egypt.

The main purpose of Acacia fraternity is to help prepare the student to have a more active part and have a greater influence in the community in which he resides. Throughout the year, the Acacians at Illinois Wesleyan do this job well. They do this to improve not only themselves but also the university as well.

Acacias gave their house a new coat of paint last spring.

The famous Acacia mummy made its appearance at the homecoming campus beast contest.

The owl on top of the door distinguishes the Phi Gam house from the other fraternities.

Phi Gamma Delta

The Alpha Deuteron Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta is now in its ninety-ninth year at Illinois Wesleyan and is proud of its contributions and additions to campus life. Alpha Deuteron was chartered on December 4, 1866, and was the first national social Greek-letter organization at Illinois Wesleyan. The Fijis are currently headquartered three blocks south of the campus, in a situation conducive to making the "most" of Franklin Park. With diversity as a keynote, the Fijis boast many excellent lettermen. Three varsity co-captains of baseball, football, and basketball are listed upon the roll of Alpha Deuteron. The CCI champion football Titans boasted a complement of eight FIJI lettermen and three playing reserves. Fiji intramural teams are perennially at or near the top of the competition. Their scholastic achievements were recognized when the Fijis became recipients of the Sigma Chi Foundation trophy presented to the largest percentages of members receiving degrees.

Socially, the Phi Gams are always in the midst of things. Once a year, the appearance of Fijis in black paint herald the arrival of their annual "Fiji Island Party". Their dates are required to wear the official invitation, a bone, around their necks and are carried off "cave-man" style. In a different mood is the Fiji Rose Formal at which one of the pin girls vying for the title of Phi Gamma Delta Sweetheart is chosen. Pig Dinner is one of the most dramatic banquets at Illinois Wesleyan. The traditional roasted pig, trimmings and all, is enjoyed by both alumni and active members alike in an annual get-together.

Sigma Chi

The Alpha Iota Chapter of Sigma Chi Fraternity, founded in 1883, is the second oldest of Illinois Wesleyan's five social fraternities. By virtue of victories in intramural competition and a first-place finish in the Homecoming float competition, Sigma Chi retained the Sweepstakes Keg. Another highlights of the Homecoming festivities was the Sig victory in the annual pledge rope pull. At Greek Variety Show, Sigma Chi and Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority took first place for their skit.

Among the chapter's important social events are the pledge pajama party, the spring formal at which the famous Sweetheart of Sigma Chi is chosen, and the Derby Day Carnival where the entire campus is invited to watch the campus sororities "capture the derbies" from the Sigs and compete in hilarious athletic contests.

Sigma Chi is well represented in campus activities. They have indeed played a major part in shaping varsity athletic squads. This year, the Sigs have attained varied positions in the Student Senate, and a number of Sigs on the Dean's List boosts their scholastic aspirations.

Founded in 1855 at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, Sigma Chi Fraternity has become well-known nationally. A great number of Sigs hold important positions in business, government, and professional athletics. Many celebrities such as Barry Goldwater and John Wayne are members of Sigma Chi.

With the addition of two fine pledge classes, it is hoped that the chapter will continue to help build the characters of its members in accordance to the standards of Sigma Chi. If these standards are kept, the reputation of Sigma Chi will be as well-known on campus in the future as it has been in the past.

Sigs are proud of their efficient and attractive chapter house.

The old TKE house was full of excitement even in its last year.

One of the times the whole group can get together is during a meal.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

"Not for wealth, rank, or honor, but for personal worth and character." On this basic premise the world's largest international social fraternity was founded at Illinois Wesleyan University on January 10, 1899. Through the years this high ideal has fostered phenomenal growth for Tau Kappa Epsilon in all parts of the North American continent. Boasting the largest undergraduate membership, TEKE is strongly held together by the belief that the brothers belong to a "fraternity for life."

The Alpha Chapter tries to maintain the high ideals set up by the basic declaration of principles to direct the brothers toward becoming mature, active, participating citizens of the university and the community. A careful balance of social life, athletics, and a rigorous aeademic program make life a richly rewarding experienee.

Highlights of the TEKE soeial year are the Bowery Brawl, Arabian Nights Party, the Orchid Formal, and the annual Sweetheart Formal at which the TEKE Sweetheart is crowned.

Athletics are well covered by their participation in the various intramurals events, pledge-active football game, and the state and national "TEKE" basketball tournaments.

Much time has been spent this year in the collection of funds for the chapter house on Franklin Avenue to be constructed and ready in the very near future.

We are very proud of these words of President Dwight D. Eisenhower; "I eongratulate you on the high moral plane of your principles. I wish you continued success in indoctrinating young men of college with your principle of the fundamental equality and dignity of the individual." Illinois Wesleyan is proud to have the Alpha Chapter of TEKE. The boys at 1310 N. Main are also proud to be members of this fraternity.

Theta Chi

Sixty-three men consider Theta Chi a vitally important part of their lives at Illinois Wesleyan. Theta Chi Fraternity was founded in April, 1856, and since then has grown into one of the largest national social fraternities with over 140 chapters extending throughout the United States. Founded on Wesleyan's campus in 1919 as a local fraternity, it has established a tradition of leadership and excellence. It is a strong participant in campus activities and student government, with members serving as class officers, student senators, and activity leaders. This year's presidents of the Student Senate, the IFC, the Sophomore Class, vice-president of the Junior Class, and several members of Blue Key, Green Medallion, and Student Senate are brothers of Theta Chi. Diversity is an important word at Theta Chi.

Theta Chi's scholastic achievements were recognized at the fall convocation when they won the scholarship trophy for maintaining the highest average for fraternities.

The brothers of Theta Chi enjoy living, working, and playing together. The Bowery Brawl, Playboy Party, and other weekend exchanges and parties are highlighted each year by the Dream Girl Formal.

A portion of the Theta Chi creed summarizes the main purposes here at Wesleyan, a purpose that it has tried to fulfill for many years: "Theta Chi builds men." The fraternity also has an obligation to Wesleyan: "Alma Mater first, Theta Chi for Alma Mater."

During the past year, Darrel St. Aubin acted as president; Ed Williams was vice-president; Dean Lowman handled the office of secretary and Dick Healy acted as treasurer.

Phi Mu Alpha

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, a national professional music fraternity, was founded at the New England Conservatory of Music on October 6, 1898. The Alpha Lambda Chapter, one of the few chapters which maintains a house, was established at Wesleyan on June 7, 1928.

This past year, Phi Mu Alpha has played an active part on campus as it contributed to the Homecoming festivities by placing first in the chariot race, participating actively in intramural sports, performing with Sigma Alpha Iota and Delta Omicron in an American Musicale, and combining their efforts with Kappa Delta for their portion of the Greek Variety Show. In addition, the men of Phi Mu presented several Jazz Band Concerts which have become a tradition on Wesleyan's campus.

The house is composed of thirty-two members consisting of mostly music majors. Requirements for membership, however, are not exclusive to music majors. In past years Phi Mu Alpha has had members majoring in Drama, Art, Theology, Social Science, and other varied fields.

Two faculty members in the Wesleyan Music School are nationally recognized for the offices they hold in the Sinfonia Fraternity. They are Dr. Carl Neumeyer, second vice-president, and Mr. Henry Charles, province governor.

Friday the thirteenth was cause for special celebration by the Phi Mus and their dates as they came dressed for the occasion in "ghoulish" costumes for this fall informal. Another highlight of their social events was the Sweetheart Formal in the early spring. It can be easily seen that the men from Phi Mu have as much fun as the men in the social fraternities.

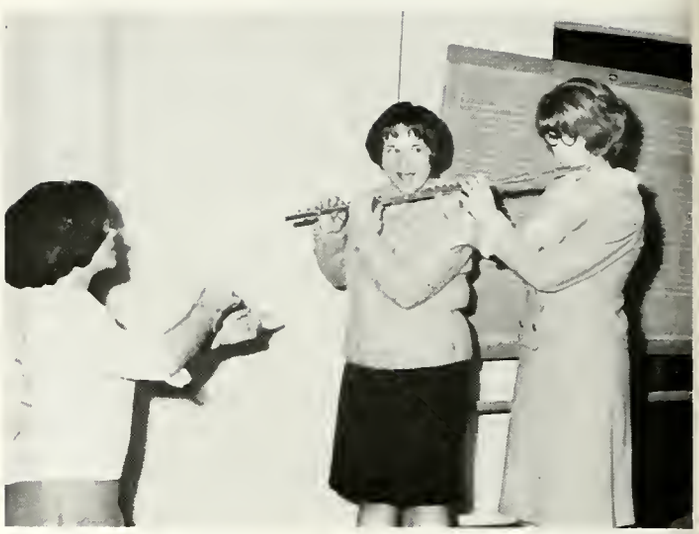
Delta Omicron

September is a very special month on campus, but particularly so for a Delta Omicron member as once again Presser Hall resounds with screams of joy as the sisters greet each other after summer vacation. With October comes Professional Rush and a united effort to present the "best" of their beloved sorority. November and December find the DO's in seasonal programs, rehearsals, the Winter Informal, Christmas parties and caroling. However, the sorority is not all fun and games. Practice is a major part of a DO's life. Many of the sisters spend most of their time in Presser Hall to improve their talents and acquire better grades. The evidence of their hard work is shown as finals are performed in January.

The new semester starts for many DO's with the Collegiate Choir tour when all combine forces for second semester rush. The beloved lyre of gold is proudly donned by new initiates and the silver-lettered DO by new pledges. The months of music slip by with spring when the sisters spend many hours decorating for the Spring Dinner Dance. When May finals are over, the Wesleyan year of recitals, operas, diligent practice as well as active participation in Student Senate, social sororities, Green Medallion, Alpha Lambda Delta, and many other campus activities ends; but the sisterhood of Delta Omicron lives on.

Founded in 1909, DO was the first international professional sorority and had the first collegiate chapter founded abroad. Members of Delta Omicron come not only from the United States but also from many other parts of the world. Upon the Wesleyan campus, members come from all reaches of residences; from sorority houses to off-campus homes. At the DO meetings, they bring the knowledge and experiences of living with many others besides their DO sisters. All have in mind the many ideals of Delta Omicron, perhaps stated best in the sorority's open motto, "Continually striving, we SHALL attain."



"Race you to the end!"

SAI's brighten Yuletide spirit with Christmas carols.

The Sigma Alpha Chapter of SAI can boast the only chapter house in the nation.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Sigma Alpha Chapter is proud to be one of 130 college chapters of Sigma Alpha Iota, which now has a total membership of over 40,000. Founded on March 3, 1924, Illinois Wesleyan's chapter is in its 42nd year and can boast the only chapter house in the nation. SAI won the College Chapter Achievement Award in 1964 for high standards shown throughout the year.

This professional music sorority has participated in many musical activities this year, such as the American Musicale, a Christmas Musicale for the faculty, and the sponsoring of the Christmas Carol with Acacia. Also, SAI has given many recitals and programs for civic organizations.

Sigma Alpha Iota held an all-campus Open House in November to show its newly redecorated house. The two informals "Rhapsody in Red" and "Nite Before Christmas" were great fun as was the Spring Formal. SAI's combination of professional and social aspects of college education has been of great benefit and indeed has promoted the spirit of sisterhood in its girls. During the winter the chapter was honored by a visit of the Province President, and many of the girls traveled to Knox College to attend the annual SAI State Day held for all chapters of Gamma Province.

SAI has indeed a busy schedule this year—one with many highlights. Everyone is looking forward to August when the tri-ennial National Convention will be held in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Many of the girls are planning to attend the convention to see the sorority in action on the national scope as well as to meet their sisters from chapters all over the country.

All the activities which the girls have participated in have enriched their college life and served to make the chapter one of the most active ones in the country.

ORGANIZATIONS

Phi Kappa Phi

At elections held twice a year, both men and women from the Colleges of Liberal and Fine Arts are chosen for membership in Phi Kappa Phi, Wesleyan's second oldest honorary fraternity. In order to be elected, a student must have maintained a high scholastic standing for the first three years of study. He or she must also have shown qualities of leadership, and have received three-fourths of the votes of the students and faculty members who make up the voting body of Phi Kappa Phi.

This organization encourages excellence in academic endeavors by allowing membership to only a select few. Not more than twelve per cent of any senior class has ever achieved this honor.

High standards of character are also set for each student, encouraging him to use his leadership qualities and hard-earned knowledge for the best possible purposes.

Phi Kappa Phi is open to members of other honorary organizations since its aim is the stimulation of mental accomplishment in all areas of campus life. It serves this purpose well. There is no doubt that the members of Phi Kappa Phi today are the leaders of tomorrow.

Phi Kappa Phi members such as Norma Jackson are no strangers to the library.

Phil critically analyzes John's technic of congratulating new members.

The qualifications of candidates are carefully discussed.

Blue Key

The Blue Key, composed of seniors and a few outstanding juniors, honors the men of Illinois Wesleyan for their achievements on campus. It is not an honorary organization alone, however. Eaeh year they sponsor the Blood Drive. This is held in connection with the Red Cross and gives all students a chance to participate. The men of Blue Key also usher at all-school eonvoeations.

As their motto, "Leadership and Service," indieates, these men are not chosen from the standpoint of scholarship alone, but also according to their interest and leadership that they display on campus. The Blue Key, with a membership of approximately 42,000, is the largest recognition society for men in the nation.

Egas

Probably the highest honor any Wesleyan coed can receive is being elected a member of Egas, the local honorary sorority for senior women. Few people are able to fulfill the requirements for this group, but those that do can easily be recognized. A typical member of Egas has a high grade average, shows leadership in activities, contributes more than her share to Illinois Wesleyan, and displays high standards of character and personality.

Members of Egas are elected one day each spring. When they are notified of this honor, they are given long black robes to wear so that all students would recognize them as members of this very special organization.

Founded at Illinois Wesleyan in 1937, Egas has always had members who contributed greatly to the IWU image. Membership in this organization is considered the highest honor a student can receive. Usually members are elected in the last half of their junior year, but often a sophomore who has done exceptionally outstanding work is also elected. As these girls are honored to be members of Egas, so is Illinois Wesleyan honored to have them as students. Like Blue Key, a similar organization for men, Egas strives for a better image of Wesleyan. It has done this job well, for past history has shown that it was women such as these who have made IWU the fine institution it is today.

Egas members rehearse the mock initiation of new members.

Amy Snodgrass, active in many campus affairs and Mike Harvey, a participant in the Washington Semester Program, are both members of Green Medallion.

Green Medallion

Founded in 1941 as a local recognition society for sophomores at Illinois Wesleyan, Green Medallion has continued its tradition of selecting members each spring. Those who have participated widely in activities, rendered service to Illinois Wesleyan, displayed high standards of character and maintained at least a 2.5 accumulative grade average are eligible for election to Green Medallion. New members are selected from the eligible group by the previous year's members.

Thirty-three sophomores were invited into membership and initiated last spring. At the initiation banquet Miss Marie Robinson, Professor of Speech, emphasized that each person has to use his capabilities to the fullest extent, be honest to himself and others, and be proud of what he can do.

Green Medallion is an honorary society, not a service organization. Its purpose is to recognize those persons who have earned the honor. Its only function is to select their successors to membership.

In this way Green Medallion provides continuous recognition of Illinois Wesleyan leaders and encourages them to further the excellence which they have already displayed.

Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honorary society honoring freshmen women for outstanding academic achievement. The Illinois Wesleyan Chapter was founded in 1949.

To become a member of "Alpha Lam," a girl must accumulate a grade point of 3.5 or higher by the end of her first or her first two semesters in college. In the Spring of 1964, eighteen women were initiated, and in the Fall of 1964, two more members were accepted. "Alpha Lams" are actives during their sophomore year, having chosen officers at the Spring initiation banquet. During the rest of their college days they are considered "alums" and are invited to the activities. The senior member who has maintained the highest grade point is honored at the Spring banquet.

Since Alpha Lambda Delta is an honorary society, its activities are limited. Members give a tea for freshmen women during New Student Week to explain the purpose of the organization and to promote interest in it. There is an annual "Smarty-Party" for freshmen women who did not reeeive D or F slips after the first semester mid-term grades are in. Possible future activities include an "Alpha Lam" reunion and table at the Homecoming banquet and a service project to help promote scholarship on campus.

"But we need energy to keep up our grades."

Delta Phi Delta

The Gallery Building, with its paint-spattered rooms and walls hung with works of art, soon becomes a familiar home for Wesleyan's art students; but how many of them ever noticed a charter hanging on the wall by the staircase? This charter establishes the Alpha Nu chapter of Delta Phi Delta, Wesleyan's honorary art fraternity.

The twelve members are elected by the actives on the basis of attitude, quality of art work, and grade average. Only upper classmen are chosen, so this should be an incentive to all freshman art students.

Delta Phi Delta has few social functions, but this does not mean that it is not an active organization. Twice a year they sponsor two art sales which are composed of the original art work of the members, the art faculty, and the students. This year the money will be donated to the fund for the purchase show, allowing the art department to buy one painting from the exhibit which was sent to the school in the fall.

Another function which Delta Phi Delta sponsors during the year is the showing of six art films. These are shown for a minimum charge to interested Wesleyan students. Thus Delta Phi Delta is quite active in furthering interests in art.

Gamma Upsilon

Initiation of new members once a semester is one of the focal points of GU activities as the group gathers for the "ultra-solemn" ceremony and banquet dinner. Candidates for membership are chosen from students working on the ARGUS, WESLEYANA, or BLACK BOOK who have contributed outstanding work for at least one year.

The Illinois Alpha Chapter was founded at Wesleyan in 1935. Among its traditional activities, this honorary student publications fraternity awards plaques at the Honors Day Convocation to students doing exceptional work in three areas: outstanding writing ability, general all-around contribution, and managerial ability. Recipients of the 1963-64 awards were Jim Bennett, Bob Berg, and Sue Clikeman, respectively.

Gamma Upsilon sponsored the organization and sale of student directories again this year and also sponsored the presentation of an evergreen to the University in memoriam of Dr. W. E. Schultz, longstanding member of Wesleyan's family and founder of the Illinois Alpha Chapter of Gamma Upsilon.

Kappa Delta Pi

Kappa Theta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, an honorary in education, was established at Illinois Wesleyan on January 26, 1965. The society is composed of those who have demonstrated scholastic excellence and professional interest.

Alpha Kappa Psi

The Illinois Wesleyan Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi is one of over a hundred chapters. Founded upon high business ethics and the improvement of the future businessman, AKPsi is augmenting the preparation of Wesleyan's Business, Insurance, and Economics majors.

At the bimonthly meetings the members meet guest speakers who have come from all areas of specialization within this realm of commerce.

This year the Homecoming mums were supplied by Alpha Kappa Psi. The proceeds were then used for a two-day field trip to Chicago.

All members of AKPsi are pledged through invitation. After taking a test and writing a paper on personal business ethics, they are initiated.

Theta Alpha Phi

The Beta Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, the national honorary dramatics fraternity, has been in existence at Illinois Wesleyan since 1921. Membership in this organization is granted on the basis of dramatic achievement in any of the allied fields of the theatre. These include writing, directing, costuming, set design, and lighting. The three members of Theta Alpha Phi: Richard Kramer, Phil Polito, and Sylvia Ketel, most definitely deserve this honor, as they have shown on stage many times.

Masquers

Masquers is a local social organization for those students who are interested in drama. One does not have to be a drama major to be eligible for membership. Since members of Masquers are chosen for the quantity of their work, one has to earn his membership. All he needs to do is work hard for the department and show sufficient interest in his work. A point system is used to determine the eligibility of the members. The more interest and activity one has in the drama department, the more points he acquires and the better chance he has of becoming a member of Masquers. Its members include the finest actors from Illinois Wesleyan. From this group, members for a more select organization, Theta Alpha Phi, are chosen.

Among other forensic activities, Pi Kaps participate in the departmental Speech Hour.

Pi Kappa Delta

Illinois Alpha Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta is the oldest honorary fraternity on the Illinois Wesleyan campus. Members of the national honorary forensic fraternity are selected from students and instructors who have taken part in a number of intercollegiate contests. The fraternity consists of three orders: debate, discussion, and oratory. The order of oratory includes students who have participated in interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, choral reading, and after-dinner speaking. Wesleyan has had much success in tournaments both on our campus and at other colleges. This year Pi Kap attended tournaments in Wisconsin and Nebraska, as well as many in Illinois. The Pi Kap National Convention at Tacoma, Washington this spring was the highlight of the season.

Illinois Wesleyan's chapter is sponsored by Dr. Robinson, Professor of Speech at IWU. Mr. Burt, also of the Speech Department, is the head of Debate, and Dr. Carpenter is head of Oratory. The fraternity is devoted to the ideal of free speech—the art of persuasion beautiful and just.

Beta Beta Beta

Beta Beta Beta is an honorary fraternity for those who are interested in science and biological research. To be eligible for membership, one must have at least ten hours of biology credit and a cumulative grade average better than the school grade average. If one is simply interested in biology, there is also provisional membership available. Relatively new on campus, the Illinois Wesleyan chapter of Beta Beta Beta has completed its second successful year.

Under the supervision of Dr. Frank Kulfinski, the group has engaged in many different activities. Dr. Lloyd Bertholf, the past national president, and Dr. Robert Evers have been among the various guest speakers. Other activities of the organization have included their initiation banquet, informal gatherings, service projects for the biology department, and tutoring.

The officers of Beta Beta Beta are as follows: Tim Townsend, president; Steve Lawrence, vice-president; Marilyn Schniepp, secretary; and Jim Anderson, historian.

Student Senate

The Student Senate not only governs student affairs but also promotes social activities on campus. The students work on five committees and seven commissions to help make life at IWU more enjoyable. A new committee, organized this year, investigates the representation in the Senate and revises the Senate constitution. The committees and commissions hold weekly meetings to make plans for action. The Senate as a whole meets every Sunday night to discuss the information presented by the senators.

The activities sponsored by the Student Senate are numerous. Frequent combos in the Dug Out as well as the regular Friday night movies are attended by many interested students. The Senate also sponsors the Homecoming activities and the annual spring event.

The sponsor this year, Dr. Joseph Collin, worked enthusiastically with the students to help them execute their plans smoothly. This year, the Student Senate has had the largest budget in its history. The money was used well in the Student Senate activities.

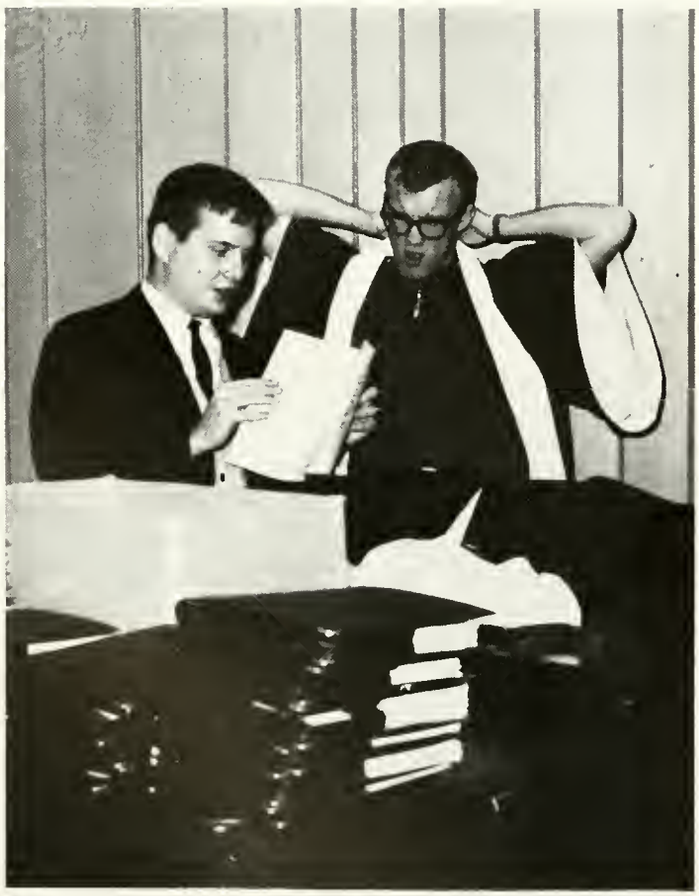
Members of the Co-Choir pause for the camera in the midst of their busy performance schedule.

No time is lost when members of Co-Choir study their numbers.



Collegiate Choir

The Illinois Wesleyan University Collegiate Choir, under the direction of Mr. David Nott, is approximately forty years old.

There are forty-seven members in the Collegiate Choir, most of whom are music majors. About twenty-five percent are non-music majors. Auditions for the Collegiate Choir, held every fall, are open to all students at Wesleyan. However, because of the strict requirements, only the chosen few are accepted as members.

Every spring the Collegiate Choir goes on a tour to some part of the United States during spring vacation. This year was no exception. The tour for 1965 was during spring vacation from April 2 to April 11. The Co-Choir planned a Midwestern tour through various cities this year. These cities included Des Moines, St. Louis, Chicago, and Janesville, Wisconsin. The tour also covers the Eastern section of the United States during alternate years.

Besides the annual tour, Co-Choir sings for Chapel and convocations on various occasions. Most members of Co-Choir are upper-classmen although often freshmen and sophomores are chosen.

Illinois Wesleyan is known for its outstanding music department, and the Collegiate Choir is an excellent example of the quality of talent it has.

Singing Titans

The Singing Titans, an all male chorus of 35, is under the direction of Mr. David Nott. During the Christmas season they performed for the Rotary Club and sang Four Christmas Carols by Halsey Stevens for the Christmas Choral Concert. They also appeared at the Bloomington-Normal meeting of the Chamber of Commerce where they shared the program with Norman Vincent Peale. Their final performance of the year was at the Spring Choral Concert in May.

The Singing Titans not only perform for school functions but also for occasions on tour.

Women's Chorus

The Women's Chorus of forty female voices is also directed by Mr. David Nott. Besides occasionally singing the anthem for Chapel, the Women's Chorus appears at the Spring Choral Concert. Often at larger concerts, they combine with the Singing Titans and Collegiate Choir for a few numbers. They performed numbers by Ulysses Kay, Monteverdi, and John Diercks for the annual Christmas Concert.

In order to obtain the perfection achieved by the Women's Chorus, the members must practice for many hours a week. Often, as one passes Presser Hall during the evening, he can hear their voices ringing in the halls. All this work is worth it when these girls make their performance.

Membership in Women's Chorus is open to all women at Illinois Wesleyan who are interested. One need not have an exceptionally good voice to be accepted. Each member is guided until she can sing the selection well.

The IWU Women's Chorus, made up of liberal arts and fine arts majors alike, performed at many a concert during the year.

Chapel Choir

On Tuesday evening at 8:00 one can find the Chapel Choir rehearsing diligently in Presser Hall. For Christmas Chapel they performed Pachebel's Magnificat with orchestra accompaniment. A complete oratorio, another major work, was performed in the spring. The group frequently provides music for University Chapel services. This year the membership has climbed to 185. The Chapel Choir, directed by Mr. David Nott, is open to all interested students in the University.

Chamber Singers

The Chamber Singers is a specially selected group chosen from the membership of the Collegiate Choir. The group is under the direction of Mr. David Nott. The main interest of the sixteen member organization is the field of contemporary choral literature. During the year, the Chamber Singers performed in the Spring Tour Program and presented the works of visiting guest composers in the Spring Fine Arts Symposium. The group also performs for the various faculty and student activities, thus giving IWU students a chance to see them also. They are, indeed, a fine product of Illinois Wesleyan's Music Department.

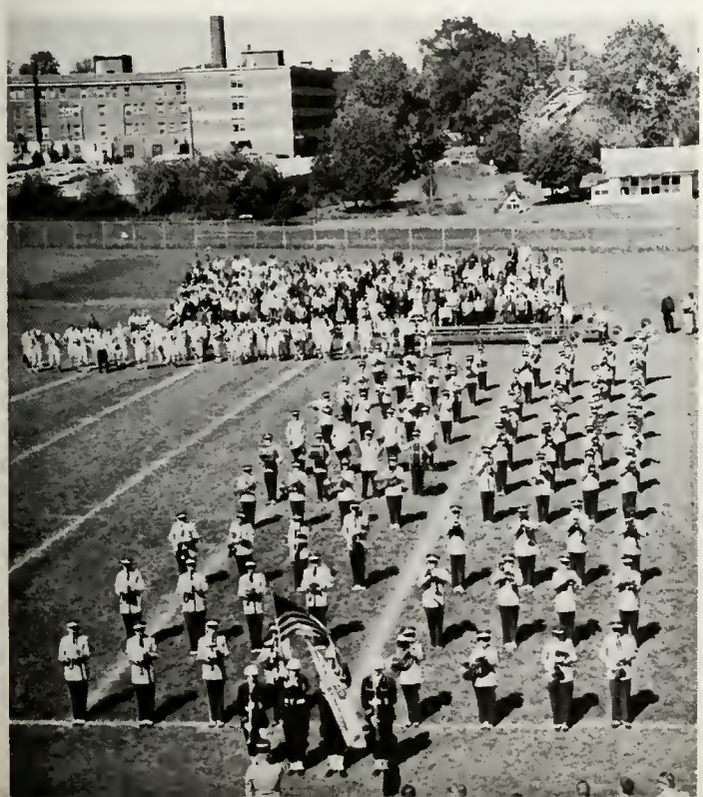
Chapel Choir, the largest IWU singing group, is open to all who enjoy making music.

Above the Marching Band forms a violin in honor of Miss Husted's 25 years at IWU. While below Wesleyan's Titans are greeted by the roll of drums and the blast of trumpets.

The audience stands as the band plays the national anthem.



Marching Titans

The Illinois Wesleyan University Marching Titans was led this year by drum major Dave Gearheart. The Marching Band provided half-time entertainment for four home football games last fall. Thanks to good weather, the band members had a wonderful season with very little rain, snow, or cold temperatures. Next year the band will be sporting new uniforms which will be a highlight for both the band and the spectators. The eighty band members are directed by Mr. Maurice Willis.

One of the highlights of the Marching Titans is their ability to make complex formations. During Homecoming, they formed shapes of the insignia symbolizing the courses taught by various well-known faculty members. At another time, they formed shapes of different European countries.

The band holds rehearsals on Monday and Wednesday afternoons.

Concert Band

The Concert Band under the direction of Mr. John McGrosso had an enrollment of over fifty members last year. Traditionally, two concerts are presented by the Concert Band each year. One concert is performed during the winter, while the other is usually presented in the spring. The spring concert was a concerto program in which seven soloists performed piano, oboe, clarinet, and trombone concertos with the band.

Most of the time during the first semester, the Concert Band was busy preparing for a tour which it took during semester break. On this tour, they traveled to Streator and Oak Lawn and presented concerts for the high school students. Admission into this organization is open to all qualified students with the approval of the director. Like its sister organization, University Orchestra, Concert Band does not require members to be music majors. However, anyone who applies should be prepared to work hard and practice much in order to uphold the fine quality and tradition of the Concert Band.

Band members settle down for a rehearsal.

The University Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Mancinelli, adds to the cultural opportunities for Wesleyan students.

Orchestra rehearsals are a combination of fun and hard work.

University Symphony Orchestra

The forty-piece University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Mario Mancinelli, performs literature from all periods of music. This organization is open to all qualified students in the university whether they are music majors or non-music majors, who wish to improve their playing skills for academic reasons or purely for their own enjoyment. The orchestra schedules two concerts each year, one during the fall semester and one during the spring semester. Among the selections performed was Dvorak's "New World Symphony". Such performances become polished through the diligent practice of the members. Two sessions of practice weekly are required for the orchestra as a whole, and separate sessions are also scheduled for the various sections. In the spring, the orchestra was busy accompanying the opera, "The Pearl Fishers" by Bizet, which was produced by the Opera Theater Workshop students. Another of its functions was to play for the Founders' Day Convocation in February.

Orchesis

This year, the Orchesis Club had the excellent help of a new advisor, Mrs. Winkler, and her assistant, Mrs. McNeil. The 1964-65 season was highlighted by the annual Orchesis Concert in Presser Hall. Through the concert the club tried to show the variety of expression in modern dance. One interesting number showed how basic exercises were incorporated in a dance. Once again this year, the club undertook the Chapel service. Held in May, the service showed how a religious feeling could be expressed through dance. The year was closed by the participation in the Fine Arts Festival Competition also held in May. Membership in Orchesis is open to all students who are interested in modern dance and expression.

Terrapin Club

Terrapin Club, an organization for coeds who enjoy water ballet, presented a water show the weekend of March 24-27. Swimming in this show was used as an expression of art, not as a sport. Thirteen numbers and appropriate musie for them were chosen. The interpretation of the ballet to the music was then determined. To increase the suspense of this particular performance, the president, Joan Dennis, did not divulge the theme of the show. As the date approached, the girls worked hard toward perfecting the numbers. They would often swim from sixteen to eighteen hours a week. Their efforts were well rewarded with a fine performance.

The sponsor and advisor of the club is Miss June Schultz. Leading its activities are Joan Dennis, president, and Lillian Buckbee, vice-president.

Le Cercle Francais

Le Cercle Francais, Wesleyan's French club, holds its meetings on Wednesday nights every third or fourth week. The informal meetings include guest speakers, films, and conversations in French. The purpose of Le Cercle Francais is to develop a better understanding among French students and to enable them to practice speaking French. The students participating in the meetings do not have to be French students. Anyone who is interested in France or the French language is welcome to attend these meetings anytime he wishes to.

If one knows more about the background of the French language, he will find French easier to learn.

SEATED: D. Harmon, treasurer; G. Anderson, secretary; J. Vogt, president; L. Talaba, program chairman. STANDING: K. Charles, B. Douglas, J. Wolfgang, M. Crane, T. Sibbert, P. Chapman, Miss M. Thrash, advisor.

Los Amigos

The objectives of Los Amigos, Wesleyan's Spanish club. are to familiarize its members with the cultural contributions of Spanish civilization and to offer the students an opportunity to practice speaking Spanish with one another. The first meeting, a treasure hunt and weiner roast, was held at Dr. Labarthe's home. Another main event was the annual Christmas party featuring a pinata which everyone tried to break with a stick.

Membership to Los Amigos is by no means restricted. Anyone who is interested in Latin American culture is invited to attend these meetings. Los Amigos is Spanish for the friends; thus, this club is also established to better the relationships of fellow Spanish students.

Like other foreign language clubs, Los Amigos was formed to interest the students in Spanish culture and thus to cause them to study their language with greater enthusiasm. It is certainly successful in this aspect, since students find Spanish easier to learn once they know its background.

Los Amigos is also fortunate to be sponsored by Dr. Pedro Labarthe, who is undoubtedly one of the most colorful personalities on campus.

M. E. N. C.

The student chapter of the Music Educators' National Conference was founded at Illinois Wesleyan in 1952. The organization limits its membership to Junior and Senior music majors who are planning a career in music education. M.E.N.C. is a voluntary, non-profit organization. Like most organizations, it seeks to improve the capabilities of its members by offering them additional information on music education. It represents every phase of musical education at all types of educational institutions. All members of M.E.N.C. receive the Music Educators' Journal, the organization's national magazine.

The members of M.E.N.C. seek to improve their musical capabilities.

S. E. A.

Under the direction of Doctors Paul Ross and Lucile Klauser is the Student Education Association, which is a branch of both the Illinois Education Association and the National Education Association. Founded for the purpose of giving instruction and advice to those interested in careers in education, S.E.A. is a professional organization of long standing.

This year, the meetings were held on the middle Wednesday of each month. At some of these meetings, the members of S.E.A. hear lectures from well-known speakers and see demonstrations of new teaching techniques. At other meetings there may be a panel discussion or just an informal question-and-answer period.

The Student Education Association helps students by showing them the correct methods of teaching. Without an organization such as this, many of our future graduates would not know what to do on the first day of class as a teacher. The student soon finds out that it takes more than just the knowledge of a subject to teach. It is S.E.A. that gives them this extra training.

"W" Club

The "W" club is IWU's organization honoring those outstanding athletes who have won athletic letters in intercollegiate sports. Students who have managed these sports are also eligible for membership in this organization. The club helps make fine citizens out of these men by stressing the importance of good sportsmanship and cooperation among themselves in their everyday life as well as in sports. These devoted athletes are the ones who have brought fame to the Illinois Wesleyan teams. When they graduate from here, they will leave with a sense of pride, knowing that they were members of that select group of athletes, the "W" club.

Barb Schauffler, John Kuhar, Doris Maloney, and Nancy Peterson review prospective BLACK BOOK material.

Co-editors Barb Schauffler and John Kuhar confer with their advisor, Mr. Meyers.

Black Book

Black Book editors Barb Schauffler and John Kuhar faced a minor set-back when they returned to Wesleyan this year. They had no place to set up an office since the Campaign Office had been set up in the basement of Holmes. Nevertheless, they set to work as a few people began to submit their themes and stories as early as October. Advisor Mr. Meyers' advanced writing class again provided the bulk of the work. Since the Black Book is not sold until late spring, most students withheld their work until they felt they had begun to master the art of creating fiction. After the stories were selected, the staff looked for art work which would suit not only the individual pieces but also the level of excellence the book tries to maintain.

Argus

The weekly Argus came out in time for breakfast each Friday. Work began for the next week's paper a few short hours later when the Managing Editor posted assignments and the Feature and News Editors contacted reporters to tell them what features to write.

When these features began coming in the office, the copy staff put on their glasses and diligently checked spelling, content, journalistic form, and sentence structure. This was a long and tedious job that had to be done Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the editorial staff selects the letters to the editor and the Publicity Office releases to be in the next edition. Columnists' contributions, including that of the mysterious Charles Martel III, completed the week's news.

All of these articles were sent to the printer's office and came back as galley proofs to be perused again for errors. Laying out the paper occurred Wednesday evening and usually lasted long into the night. This involved pasting stories on "dummy sheets" just as they were to fit on the pages and then writing headlines to complete them.

On Thursday afternoon, the printers had run-throughs of those pages ready for their final examination. After this was done, the Argus went to press. However, some staff members were still not finished; they had to fold and stuff the papers as they came off the press. When this was done, the circulation manager sent them to the many subscribers and distributed them over the campus.

Editor-in-Chief Bob Berg is always on the go.

Assistant editors Andy Anderson and Marcia Fish take a momentary break.

Wesleyana

The making of a yearbook is a semi-underground operation that begins the spring before the book is to come out. At that time the editor and assistant editors are selected by the Publications Commission and approved by the Student Senate; the tentative budget is set up; contracts are made with the printing, engraving, and cover firms; staff members are recruited, and spring events and sports are photographed. During the summer the lay-out of the book is planned, and final arrangements are made for the cover. September finds the staff in the midst of scheduling (and sometimes re-scheduling) individual's class pictures. By October, group pictures of organizations are being arranged, copy is being assigned, and professors' schedules are being checked for free time. Meanwhile the artwork is well underway and pictures of campus activities are being taken. All through winter pictures are set up and taken, prints selected, cropped and sent to the engraver, copy is edited, proofread, and sent, along with engraving proofs to the printer, and printing proofs are received and checked for errors. In late March a tired staff puts the book to bed, sending the final pages to the printer, and the cycle begins all over again.

Episcopoi

"Little Bishop" is the meaning of the word, Episcopoi. The organization of this name consists of those men at IWU who wish to pursue future careers in the field of religion. The group holds weekly luncheon meetings which feature guest speakers, prayer, and fellowship. Their purpose is to further the scope of their religious experiences and to provide all members with Christian understanding.

The Episcopoi take their interests seriously. It is this reason which is the answer to how so little an organization can be so beneficial to its members. The group may be small but the experience gained from being in such an organization has no limit in size or value.

Chi Rho

Chi Rho was formed in 1962 when the organization known as Episcopoi split into two groups. It is an organization for women who have chosen church related activities as their vocation. They hold luncheon meetings weekly where they discuss problems both academic and religious. Occasionally they have a planned program and guest speakers. Also being a service group, they participate in many school projects as well as their own. The members of Chi Rho are thus able to gain that knowledge and religious experience which will help them lead better lives. Its popularity among the women at Wesleyan indicates the degree of its success.

Chapel Committee

Chapel Committee is the organization responsible for planning Wesleyan's weekly Chapel program. This year they have brought to the campus such gifted speakers as Dr. Carl Michalson, Rabbi Herman E. Schaalman, Dr. Edward Bauman, and Dr. J. V. Casserly as well as many local theologians and fine speakers from our own area. Members of the faculty speaking for the chapel include Dr. Jerry Stone and Dr. Richard Stegner. The Chapel program has given students an excellent opportunity to further their religious growth as an integral part of their college education. Its past record shows that it has fulfilled this purpose.

Professional Panhellenic

The combined membership of representatives from Delta Omicron and Sigma Alpha Iota, the two professional music sororities on campus, compose the governing body of the Professional Panhellenic Council. This year has been quite eventful with the proposal of Alpha Tau Delta, a nursing sorority, whose addition would widen the scope of the council from strictly musical to include medical as well.

Before each rush, a breakfast is given for the rushees to explain the procedures. Combined activities for Delta Omicron and Sigma Alpha Iota are arranged during the year to promote better relations.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council's purpose is to promote the Greek system and to provide a forum for discussion of all problems common to fraternities. IFC has been active in introducing code book changes during the past year. It has taken part in several campus forums and discussions on fraternal living. It has worked toward reorganizing the fraternity rush system. IFC has highlighted its year by working to reinstate Greek Week to Wesleyan's campus. The Greek Week program was dedicated to the promotion of growth and development of better understanding and relations among the Greek fraternities.

Panhellenic Council

To co-ordinate and discuss questions which arise in the sorority world is the purpose of the Panhellenic Council. Its membership is composed of three delegates from each of the five social sororities on campus. Before Rush Week, the standards governing this period are reviewed and, if necessary, the rules are revised. In co-operation with the Interfraternity Council this year, Panhellenic helped to sponsor Greek Week and Greek Variety Show which provided much opportunity for understanding within the Greek system. Panhellenic together with Inter-dorm Council also presented the annual Best Dressed Girl contest, occurring late in the spring.

Independent Men

Wesleyan's chapter of the Independent Men's Association was organized on this campus in 1946. It is a member of the National Independent Student's Association. The purpose of this organization is to provide a social outlet for dorm students who are not affiliated with any Greek organization on campus. The association also has town students as active members.

Their weekly meetings often feature Wesleyan members of the faculty as their guest speakers. At these meetings future social events and other campus activities are planned.

Socially, an informal and formal dance were held this year. The Independent Men also sponsored a picnic in the Spring. The annual Kite Flight also provided fun for the entire campus. The HITCHHIKER, a project created two years ago, was again in constant use as the Indees kept it well supplied with cards for students looking for rides home during our various vacations.

This year the Independent Men were unable to continue their sale of used books because of the bookstore. However, the Indee Men again captured the campus scholarship trophy by having the highest average of the men on campus. Although small in size, the Indees have done a lot to give the non-Greek a good time.

Independent Men initiate new members into their society.

Co-Weds

Mrs. Vestuto, advisor to the group, accompanies them to Weberg's Furniture Store.

At Illinois Wesleyan, the wives of students or the student wives can get together and have a good time by means of the organization known as Co-Weds. These married hold meetings once a month. At these meetings, the Co-Weds may be entertained by a guest speaker, who may be a member of the faculty or administration or a special lecturer. Events planned by the Co-Weds may be an informal dinner or a new, imaginative project at which the members can have a good time. Thus, the Co-Weds are able to promote a better relationship among the married students at Wesleyan.

Co-Weds receive useful information about purchase of home furnishings at Weberg's.

Home Ec Club

Any Wesleyan student who is interested in home economics is welcome to attend the meetings of the Home Economics Club. Affiliated with the American Home Economics Association, it works with similar groups on the campuses of various colleges throughout Illinois for the purpose of competing in statewide functions. Meetings are held once a month, at which time the newest developments of home economics are discussed along with the many other topics of this field.

Advisors of this group are Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Sweet. Officers for the past year were Carol Coons, president; Carol Jackobs, vice-president; and Ellyn Bunata, secretary-treasurer.

Inter-Dorm Council

Inter-dorm Council coordinates all dorm activities and promotes the welfare of those students living in the dorms. The council, headed by president Dick Mund, meets every other week and attempts to resolve the problems which arise in the dorms. The group consists of the president and a representative from each dorm. So far, the main social function of the council has been the organization of individual dorm activities. However, it did sponsor the New Student Mixers in the Fall. The largest undertaking of this year's council was the revision of the constitutions of the residence halls so that they all would have a standard basis on which to build their individual government.

This past year was especially successful for the Interdorm Council. The dorm functions are better organized due to this group and therefore become more enjoyable and attract more students to these functions. Conflicts between the dormitories are now almost non-existent. Probably being the most practical organization formed on this campus in many years, the Inter-dorm Council has made great strides toward making life in the residence halls more enjoyable and beneficial and toward making a better Illinois Wesleyan student.

Wesleyan Student Forum

WSF was founded in 1961 as a forum for the students. With the help of its advisor, Dr. Brown, it has served its purpose well. The student's own ideas are important at these forum meetings. The scope of interests of the students and members is unlimited. WSF is willing to discuss anything of interest; whether it be campus, national, or international. It is an independent organization which counts as its members any person of the student-faculty body who has an interest to express. One may not agree or reach a conclusion during a forum meeting but will be well acquainted with the issue after the meeting is over.

IAO

Students are kept informed on international happenings by the International Affairs Organization. The group, headed by Dr. Faust, presents at least one program open to the school each month. Ten to fifteen delegates are sent annually to the Little U.N. at Indiana University. The student-faculty basketball game is sponsored by the organization to raise money for the trip. IAO also sends one representative annually to the Leadership Conference at the U.N. in New York. This year IAO began presenting the annual International Affairs Award at IWU's spring Honors Day Convocation.

Any student who is interested in world affairs is welcome to attend the IAO meetings. If he wishes to participate in the action, he might apply to be a delegate to the Little U.N. conference. By attending these sessions he receives a better understanding of foreign affairs and how governments deal with international problems. From this experience he also learns how to cooperate with people and solve individual problems. Thus IAO serves not only to give the student a better understanding of foreign affairs but also to teach him how to deal with other people. The student will not make a mistake when he joins IAO.

ATHLETICS

Football

Wesleyan's strong offensive and defensive teams combined together to conquer the CCI football championship by averaging over 345 yards per game while holding their opponents to only 239 yards.

Leading the Titan offensive rushing and passing, Dick Raab carried the ball 129 times for 665 yards. During his four years at Wesleyan, he averaged over five yards per carry and became the fifth Wesleyan player in history to play professional.

Wesleyan's strong line gave sophomore Steve Laub consistent protection during the season, enabling him to complete 106 passes for 1569 yards and 15 touchdowns. Both Raab and Laub were named to the CCI offensive name along with Dick Healy, thought to be the most outstanding offensive center in CCI action. Al Mota, Jim Kreitz, and Bob Wertz were named to the CCI defensive team and were a big factor in holding the opposition from scoring. Mike Hymbaugh and Larry Bross, part of the Titan defense, each made over eighty tackles during the season. Mike Neal, a fast defensive back, besides making four interceptions during the season, carried the ball on an important punt return at Carroll to score the only touchdown in the game, which was played in the rain. The Titans became the champs in the CCI to begin the sports for 1964-1965.

Basketball

With eight lettermen returning last year, Coach Horenberger, in his last year as Wesleyan's basketball coach, started and ended the '64-'65 season going strong. The Titans, already experienced in CCI play from the previous year, had a record of 4-0 by the time the Christmas break rolled around. The team then went East where they played games against excellent small colleges. Although they lost all four games, they picked up much experience indicated by the fact that thirteen out of fourteen remaining contests were won. Highlights of the season were the compiling of an unblemished, well-deserved record of 12-0 in CCI action and the twin defeats of the ISU Redbirds dealt by the Big Green. Following up the conference championship and the victories over ISU, the Titans surprised everyone by winning an exciting game over Eastern, the IIAC champs, 60-59 in the first of two NAIA playoff games but then lost the final game to Lewis College 73-56. Due to their fine ability, the Titan's entire first team was recognized on the All-CCI teams. James Shoub, leading scorer, and Ken Lock, rebound leader for IWU, both were named to the first team. Captain Jim Hedrick, Jim Gresham, and Steve Laub were picked for the second team. The honors were well deserved; as all five of these men shot 40% or better in the twelve conference games. Other outstanding lettermen included Smith, Steward, Lagow, Davidson, and Patterson.

Ken Lock, Titan center, tips in one easily. Lock used his height well as he led the Big Green in most rebounds.

Steve Laub cleverly dribbles around several defenders. Laub accumulated an unbelievable 49.6 shooting percentage from the field.

Tom Steward puts in a 20-foot jump shot from the corner.

Leading scorer for the Titans, Jamie Shouba, was known for outmanoeuvring defenders.

The victorious Titans leave the floor after defeating crosstown rivals, ISU, 76-71 in exciting overtime action.

Gresham picks up an offensive suggestion as he passes Coach Horenberger.

Baseball

After pounding North Park in their last two games of the '64 season by scores of 6-5 and 12-0, the Titans finished with the second place spot in the CCI conference. This was no easy task for Wesleyan's baseball team as they split double headers with all but one of their conference foes to compile a 6-4 CCI record. During the spring recess the big team headed South where they played seven games in a warmer climate than Illinois in order to get the experience and practice necessary for the coming conference action. Although their record on the trip was 1-6, five of the defeats were quite close games. The Titan victory came over Delta State with a score of 11-8 with senior Don Brachenhoff as the winning pitcher. Had the Big Green had consistent hitting throughout the season, they might well have gone undefeated; but unfortunately, the hitting did not reach its high point until the last several games. As can be seen by the scores, the conference losses were by no more than two runs. In the last four games, Brachenhoff took games from both Millikin and North Park. Dick Raab helped put the first North Park game away for us by hitting a home run which he duplicated in the second game. With strong hitting from Captain Steward, Neal, Lagow, Laub, Myers, Walters, and Hawbecker, who was elected the Most Improved Player of the Year, the Big Green completed a quite successful season.

Hedrick gives Myers the "Stand Up" sign as the Titans score another run.

Havercamp, Monsma, Coates, and Traver finish their five mile practice course down the middle of Franklin Avenue.

Cross Country

For the first time in Wesleyan's history, the University last fall was represented by a full cross country team. The young and inexperienced team started off on the right foot, however, by defeating Augustana 28-29 in their first dual meet. Durrie Monzma finished first for IWU, followed closely by Roger Traver and Dick Nolan. Another one of the Titan meets was a large contest between neighboring Illinois State University, who ran against tough Western Illinois University at the same time. Although Wesleyan lost to the large ISU team, they had several men finish with the leaders of both teams.

Since the primary purpose of the Titan Cross Country sport was to strengthen interest in running and to act as a link with the track season, the number of meets were few. The courageous winners practiced during the months of September, October, and November by running up and down Franklin Avenue and along a course route around town mapped out by themselves which covered about five miles.

The Harriers finished up their season on the 3.0 mile course at Waukesha, Wisconsin, where the conference meet was held. Although almost every Titan winner completed the first mile in five minutes or better, they did not fare too well, due to the lack of meets and experience. The Harriers are looking forward to a successful season next year with more meets on their schedule and the same team returning.

The wrestling squad included these returning lettermen: B. Joyce, J. Hoffman, and D. Divine.

Wrestling

Although a sport at Illinois Wesleyan for only three years, the wrestling team has improved and grown into a definite threat in the CCI conference. With only three returning lettermen, a lot of building had to be done; but with the aid of the freshmen and interested upperclassmen a fine team developed. With better competition at home practices and more experienced men representing Wesleyan at the conference match, the matmen were able to win third place at the big CCI meet. Although Augustana dominated the first-place medalists, the Big Green picked up three seconds, which were earned by Bill Joyce, 123-pound class, John Hoffman, 130, and John Nestor, 147. Other top Titan wrestlers were Mike Hymbaugh and Jay Hilton, who won third-place medals, along with Bob Kellet, who positioned for fourth.

With these men leading the squad, one can see why they had an above-average season. The wrestlers won three out of five dual meets, losing only to Augustana and North Central. Hilton was a consistent winner in most of these encounters.

Hilton, a constant winner, tries to flip his opponent onto the mat.

Let's talk things over.

Now if I could only pick up the other leg, too.

Diving in for a practice race are returning lettermen M. Spaulding, J. Rodgers, L. Kramer, R. Bicket.

Swimming

Several outstanding performances were accomplished this year by Wesleyan's swimming team, which was guided by Coach Don Larson. Although they lost several duals to Principia, Bradley, and George Williams College, they demonstrated some fine performances. Marty Spaulding, a two-year CCI diving champion, was a consistent winner throughout the season in the diving events as he almost always managed to outscore his opponents with excellent form. A large victory was scored against Rockford as the swimming Titans took ten of the eleven events to win 73-21. IWU's tankers also did quite well at the Rockford Relays when they won two events and broke two records to take third place. Jim Hause, Jim Rodgers, and Rob Bicket traveled the 300 yd. backstroke relay in 11.6 seconds faster than the old Rockford Relay mark with a time of 3:14. Larry Kramer, along with Hause, Rodgers, and Bicket competing in another relay, broke a school record in the 400 yd. freestyle by swimming in 3:47.1.

Track

With eight first and second place medals, Wesleyan's tracksters came within two points of taking home the second place trophy at the CCI Conference meet last May. Gold medalists were Ron Vyverberg, champion for two years in the broad jump with a leap of 21'7.38"; Bill Faulkner, 21.9 in the 220; and Jamie Shouba, 6'1.5" in the high jump. Silver medals went to Gary Coates, low hurdles; Bill Roberts, 440; Bob Crites, high jump; and the mile relay of Roberts, Faulkner, Huganir, and Coates in 3:25.5.

Coates, captain and leading scorer for the thinclads, broke two school records in the hurdles. He sprinted the high hurdles in 14.7 to better the 1938 record and galloped the low hurdles in 24.4, bettering his own record of last year. Coates, Faulkner, and Roberts were all seniors who had lettered three years, and all were honored by Coach Keck for their competitive spirit and morale to the team after the final meet.

Returning lettermen for the '65 season were co-captains Bob Crites, high jump and hurdles, and Dave Huganir, half-miler. Other lettermen included ace broad jumper Ron Vyverberg, along with Ken Swartz, Titan sprinter, and Dick Nolan and Roger Traver, experienced distance runners.

Although building took place in the relay team, new freshmen sparked Wesleyan's distance threat and helped to hold Coach Bob Keck's rising track team in contention all season.

Mark Shoger, Titan pole vaulter, holds himself parallel with the bar while he waits for a slow photographer.

Mighty Ed Williams was a big factor in winning the North Central-North Park triangular 75½, 75, 12½, by placing in the javelin throw, the last event of the meet.

R. Vyverberg, R. Traver, B. Crites, J. Shouba, D. Nolen, and K. Schwarz.

Co-captain Huganir pulls ahead of Millikin's runner in the back stretch of the half-mile run.

High jump champion, Jamie Shouba, executes excellent form which helped him clear 6′1½″ last year.

Jim Grier follows through beautifully after a chip shot to the green.

Golf

Wesleyan's golfers came in third in the CCI Golf Tournament despite a fine showing with an 18-hole average of 77 strokes per man on the Augustana course. The team was only fourteen strokes out of the first place total 603 turned in by the pre-tournament favorite, Augustana.

Steve Riley conquered the second place medal for individual scoring, moving up from the third place he scored the previous year as a freshman. Teammate Jim Grier was close behind and finished in fifth place in the meet. Mike Sweeney and Jack Feliksiak completed the four-man Titan team, which earned third place in a large field of participating contestants.

In dual matches, the Linksmen broke even with six wins, six losses and a tie. Four of these wins were in conference play where their record was 4-2. The returning lettermen, Riley and Feliksiak, with the aid of some freshman ability, hope to put in a strong bid for the CCI championship.

Mike Sweeney putts for a par 4.

Tennis

The Titan netmen came through with the CCI Tennis Championship for the second consecutive year by defeating tough second place Carroll and third place Millikin along with the other four conference teams.

Dennis Redding took the highest honors by winning the singles championship in the first division and teaming up with Ken Epple to take first place honors in first division doubles. Epple also placed second as did John Kinst in third and second division singles competition. John Kinst and Jon Friedman took second in doubles competition, which helped show the overall ability of the Titans and the reason the tennis team walked off with the championship.

The entire team, which had a season record of 3-2, is expected back this year. The top four players took in the NAIA Small College Tourney at Kansas City last June and put in a fine showing by placing fifteenth in a tough competition consisting of 28 teams and 83 individuals.

Ken Epple meets the ball squarely with a backhand return.

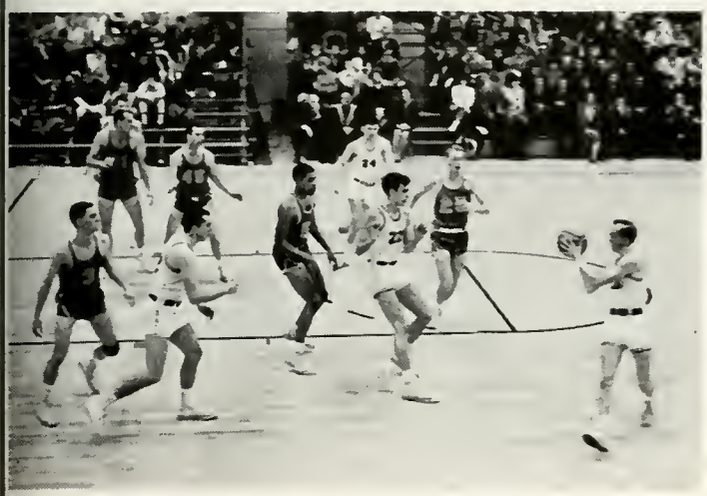
Cheerleaders

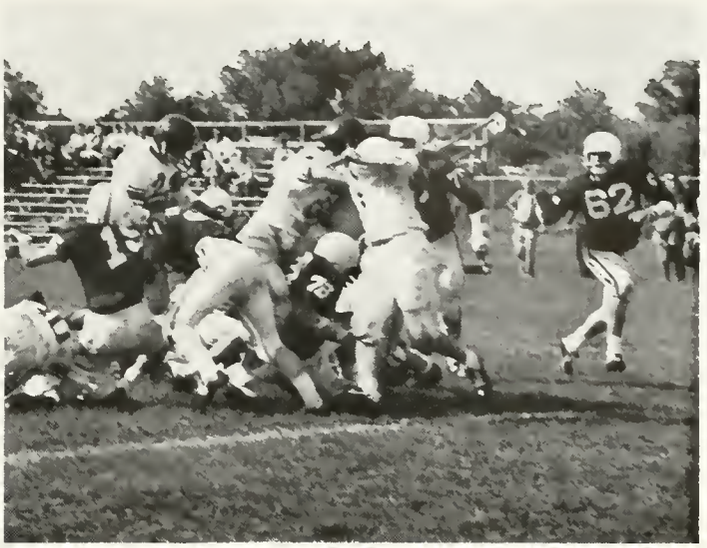
No athletic event is complete without the encouraging shouts of the cheerleaders. Very seldom do these girls receive the credit they deserve for preserving the fighting spirit in both the team and the spectators. Their presence is always welcome no matter what the score. Although small in number, they do a remarkable job of strengthening the school spirit and unity. Besides leading cheers they also work hard to make each Wesleyan event a memorable one. During Homecoming they lead the students in a snake dance to the stadium. At Dad's Day they teach the fathers how to cheer. Throughout the year, these dedicated girls in the green and white can always be expected to do their best in keeping the Titan spirit at its height. Surely they are examples of the high quality and excellence for which every Wesleyan student should strive.

Records and CCI Champs

The Titans, a strong team with excellent depth, start an offensive play which helped them conquer the CCI crown with a perfect 12-0 record.



Gary Coates, a versatile athlete, ran both hurdle events in record times.



The Big Green shows its defensive power—both good offense and good defense are needed to capture the CCI crown.

Denny Redding, CCI singles champion, was a big help in bringing home IWU's tennis championship.

Intramural Program

This year's Men's Intramural Program found the various teams at a better, more equal caliber than before. Each sport came to a close with several fraternities and dormitories fighting it out for first place. Two senior Physical Education majors were selected to head the IM program this past year. They were Jim Hedrick and Tom Steward.

Last year's IM race was neck and neck all the way to the finish. After Phi Gamma Delta won swimming; Tau Kappa Epsilon, volleyball; and Phi Mu Alpha, bowling, Theta Chi and Sigma Chi still led the campaign because of victories early in the fall and winter sports. With tennis, softball, and track remaining, two victories by either Sigma Chi or Theta Chi were needed for the championship. Although Theta Chi triumphed with first place in softball and second in tennis, Sigma Chi went on to take wins in track and tennis, enabling them to gain the Intra-Mural Sports Crown by five points.

During the fall and winter of 1964, Sigma Chi secured wins in golf and ping pong; Theta Chi picked up the most victories in badminton; Phi Gamma Delta took first in Active Basketball, while Franklin Hall captured the Pledge Basketball Championship.

Which team didn't show up this time?

In ping pong action, Kinst and Redding team up to give the Theta Chi's first place in doubles.

WSA

The Women's Sports Association seeks to develop coordination, fitness, and sportsmanship among the girls at Illinois Wesleyan. It offers these girls the opportunity to participate in such sports as volleyball, badminton, bowling, basketball, and softball. In these sports the sororities and dorms compete for intramural championships. For the third straight year, Kappa Delta sorority won the championship in the intramural basketball tournament. Other popular sports, such as volleyball and basketball, are played extramurally as well. Wesleyan was represented in games against Illinois State and Southern Illinois universities. The club advisor, Miss Niehaus, sees that the girls participate vigorously in each game.

WSA is a large organization in both size and membership. Orchesis, Terrapin Club, and Outing Club are branches of the Women's Sports Association. WSA also sponsors Co-Rec Night, at which both the men and women can compete in swimming, badminton, shuffleboard, and table tennis.

Membership in WSA is determined by the amount of participation each girl has in sports at IWU. Each semester, those girls who have earned the required number of points gained by this participation are initiated into WSA.

Officers this year were Sandy Bahan, president; Carol Kocan, vice-president; Julie Ethington, secretary; and Shirlee Anderson, treasurer.

CLASSES

Freshman Class

After a hectic week of freshman registration and orientation, the class of 1968 united its members by electing Jim Bruce, president; Cathy Harris, vice-president; Judy Freundt, secretary; and Jill Wyatt, treasurer.

In order to insure class unity, general class meetings were held frequently; also the officers adopted the idea of having a representative from every dorm present at the meetings. To meet their financial needs the freshmen sponsored a talent show and sold IWU emblems. They also sponsored a class-mixer at the beginning of the year and an all-school dance the second semester.

The class established a "first" by organizing an orientation program for next year's freshmen officers. This program will mainly include financial help, which is the major obstacle in the formation of a new class.

Sophomore Class

The class of '67 was uniquely unified in several ways. One important reason for the unity was that three of last year's officers were reelected to serve in the 1964-65 school year. The class not only knew its officers well, but their reelection indicated the confidence of the class in its leaders. The officers met weekly, and any interested class member could attend.

Unity was demonstrated by the success of the summer class picnic last year. This activity afforded the opportunity for class members to keep in contact throughout the months of vacation. Another activity of the class was their contribution to the Wesleyan Memorial Building Fund in the memory of Mr. Joseph Kelley.

The profits made by their investment in General Motors stock should carry the class through 1967.

Junior Class

For the 1964-1965 school year the class of 1966 re-elected Jim Riddell, president, and Dean Lowman as vice-president. They also chose Sherri Anderson for the office of secretary and Richard MacClannahan as treasurer. As in the past the officers held class representative meetings, which were open to all the members of the class. Two delegates from each campus dormitory and house were sent to the meetings to ensure better communications between class members.

The juniors met their financial obligations by collecting class dues and by organizing a money-making project. They were able to sponsor a dance and also provide special entertainment for the seniors through a Junior-Senior Day in the spring. All year the juniors were busy studying and holding prominent campus offices in order to stand on the threshold of their senior year at the close of the 1964-1965 term in the spring.

Senior Class

In their final year at Wesleyan, the class of 1965 chose for its officers Dick Mund, president; Peg Snyder, vice-president; Joan Dennis, secretary; and Linda Clemmings, treasurer.

As typical of most senior classes, the mere presence of Wesleyan's 1965 graduating class was felt more than seen in activities. The seniors provided leaders whose four years of college education and experience showed in their ability and competence.

Looking back on their days at Wesleyan, these men and women of the world will remember all the joys and happiness as well as the heartaches and disappointments of the past four years. Wesleyan is definitely a part of the graduate's history as the graduates are a part of Wesleyan's history. Neither the students nor the college will be forgotten.

Editor's Page

Change is as much a part of the yearbook as is tradition. One important change made from previous years is the increased amount of space devoted to the four professional schools which are a unique feature of a small university and merit recognition as such. The 1965 WESLEYANA is the result of much time and patience and effort on the part of many people: Mr. Ed Bryan and Mr. Walter Punke of Pantagraph Printing; Mr. Larry Wells of Associates Engraving; Mr. Bill Snell of S. K. Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Johnson of Corinne Studio; Mr. Fred Brian of the art school; Mr. Morris Banner of the publicity office; Marcia Fish, Allen Anderson, and Larry Solyom of the executive staff; Bill Koter, Rick Kelsey, and John Nestor of the photography staff. To these and all the rest who gave me help and encouragement—staff members, parents, and friends—I am grateful.

Problems! Problems! Problems!

Dinner for the Wesleyana V.I.P.'s, compliments of the printer.

The Wesleyana staff did not always have enough time for dinner appointments.
